(From Times News Services)

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — Residents reported to police:

(1) A freak windstorm; (2) an explosion, and (3) an automobile moving without a driver.

It turned out that it was just a woman trying to park a car.

Police said a car driven by Mrs. Clara Belle Williams, 45, backed through a front yard, struck a garage at the rear; then went forward, knocking down shrubs and a tree and damaging a concrete bird bath; struck a tree at another house and damaged the lawn; damaged shrubbery at a third house; sped across a fourth lawn; knocked down brick supports at a fifth home and finally stopped after climbing the concrete steps and damaging a porch at a fifth residence.

Mrs. Williams said something went wrong with the car. She was charged with careless driving and transporting an open bottle of liquor.

GLASGOW, Scotland — A thief who broke into a butcher's shop here cut himself while stealing $70 hidden in a sausage machine. So he broke into drug store next door to steal bandages for his wounds.

FRESNO, Calif. — Mrs. Mary Ray reported a new type of parking meter thief.

"I was just putting a nickel into a parking meter," she related, "when a young man stepped right into the car."

"Aren't you in the wrong car?" she asked.

"No," he said, and drove away.

GENEVA, N.Y. — A helicopter landed Sunday night at a filling station near here. The pilot told the stunned proprietor, "Fill 'er up, please."

The proprietor, Mrs. Mae MacCheyne, did, and Ray Chaisson, 41, of Saratoga Springs, continued his flight to Buffalo.

GREAT BEND, Kan. — Officials of the Great Bend Chamber of Commerce wanted to notify Mrs. Walter Rugan that she had won a contest sponsored by the chamber.

The prize was a week's vacation in Colorado.

The finally located Mrs. Rugan. She's vacationing in Colorado.

LOS ANGELES — How about a luncheon of quail eggs, shark fins, reindeer steak and caterpillars?

Or perhaps lily bulbs and grasshoppers broiled in butter?

These and other unusual foods are on exhibit at a wholesale market fair that opened Sunday at a downtown hotel.

On display are exotic snacks from all over the world — hams soaked in whisky, caviar, caviar, cheeses, pink beer, and, of course, grasshoppers.

These confided fair manager Ted Dohl pointing to a plate of broiled insects, "are for people who have eaten everything."

among men than women, whereas more and more women were taking up smoking these days.

SMOG ALSO DANGEROUS

He also reminded his listeners that the hydrocarbons from the smog of Los Angeles had been shown to produce cancer of the skin on mice.

Increased use of cars and the resultant large amount of tar-laden dust swirling about the streets had also been considered as a source of lung cancer.

Dr. Edmonson said it was "notable that in most cases those who do not smoke feel there are hazards associated with the habit, while those who do smoke are inclined to minimize the possibility—they are prepared to take the calculated risk."

"Some, like Mark Twain," the radiologist added, "find no difficulty in stopping smoking and have done so dozens of times."

SUB

RCAF SOINS SEARCH

It was believed the aircraft are from Comox Air Base, where the air force keeps a fleet of sub hunters.

At least one Canso aircraft from the RCAF station in Vancouver took part in the search.

An RCAF spokesman said a Canso took off Sunday with a naval observer aboard.

A navy spokesman said the report of the submarine was received Saturday night and ships were dispatched from

Esquimalt then to investigate. He added: "Our security regulations are designed so that whoever is prowling around in the first place won't find out exactly what we do or where we do it when we get one of these reports."

SEVERAL ALARMS

Navy officials in Ottawa declined comment.

There have been several reports of unidentified submarines off Canada's shores in recent years, including some on the Atlantic.

Most recent submarine alarm here was Nov. 7, when the crew of the frigate New Waterford was recalled for a hunt. After a few days it was announced that there was no actual evidence of a submarine having been sighted.

$200 MILLION BOND ISSUE MADE BY OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — The government today announced immediate offering of a new $200,000,000 short-term government bond issue—at high yields—to help finance repayment of a $500,000,000 issue maturing July 1.

Finance Minister Fleming said the new offering, split into two maturities, will complete the financing operation for the $500,000,000 repayment. This financing began with a $200,000,000 one-year treasury bill offer May 29, the government's first move into the money market since the April 9 budget.

Hotel Check on Liberace Denied

LONDON (UPI) — Daily Mirror writers denied today they knew anything about attempts to check hotels for "evidence" against Liberace who is suing the newspaper for implying he is a homosexual.

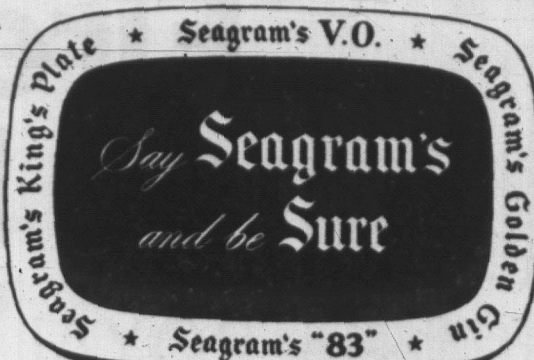

Daily Mirror Paris bureau chief Peter Stephens testified he met Liberace in Paris when the pianist arrived in September, 1956. Stephens said Liberace had been stung by a wasp and went to the airport dispensary.

Asked if Liberace's toilet water was noticeable, Stephens said, "very. In fact it overpowered the antiseptics."

Stephens said Liberace explained he intended to buy some French perfume. "The impression I got," the witness said, "was that Liberace wanted the perfume for himself."

The above has been our slogan ever since we started business in 1938 and, because hearing-aids make so much difference in people's daily lives, we have never had reason to change it.

As A. C. Furstenberg, M.D., Dean of the University of Michigan Medical School, said: "If the patient is unable to hear conversational voice and is thereby incapacitated for his daily business and social relationships, a Hearing Aid should be recommended."

Education, Taxes Head Alberta Vote Campaign

W. J. C. KIRBY
... ends long break

3 SEATS NOW

First Chief In 22 Years Tory Hope

RED-DEER, Alta. (CP)—For the first time in 22 years the Alberta Progressive Conservative party have a full-fledged party leader handling the reins in the June 18 provincial general election.

William John Cameron (Cam) Kirby, 50-year-old boyish-looking lawyer, took over the job at a leadership convention last summer. The post had been vacant since D. M. Duggan retired in 1937. The party, with three of the 61 seats in the last legislature, had been headed by House leader J. Percy Page of Edmonton.

Mr. Kirby's first venture into politics came in 1930 while in his final year at the University of British Columbia. He helped in the unsuccessful campaign of Leon Ladner, Conservative candidate in Vancouver South.

The political urge lay dormant until 1947 when Mr. Kirby was elected president of the Red Deer Conservative Association, a post he dropped in 1953 to become president of the provincial Progressive Conservative Association. He resigned the latter post to run for the leadership.

Mr. Kirby moved into the Alberta legislature with an upset victory in the 1954 Red Deer by-election caused by the death of Agriculture Minister D. A. Ure. He was returned in the 1955 general election.

EDMONTON (CP)—Education, municipal taxation and farm problems have been leading issues in an unspectacular campaign for Alberta's provincial election on Thursday.

There have been no major political issues, although the Social Credit government's oil and gas royalty dividend program, in operation for the past two years, had been expected to stir up some controversy.

Liberal head Grant MacEwan, opposition leader in the last legislature, has criticized the government's oil and natural gas policies in general, however. He argued the government is not doing enough to protect Alberta gas consumers against rate increases.

Conservative leader W. J. C. Kirby has attempted to gain the rural vote by suggesting a 'Conservative' government would carry a greater portion of the cost of rural electrification. He also promised to decentralize industry so that small centres could benefit financially from new industry.

CCF leader Floyd Johnson has suggested the people of Alberta have not received the full benefits from the province's oil industry, arguing the government has allowed private companies to make large profits at the expense of the citizens of Alberta.

All three party leaders in the meantime have stated at rallies and through radio and television broadcasts that the government is not doing all it should to improve education standards in the province.

They also argued that municipalities are going into debt while the government boasts it had pulled the province out of debt and has accumulated a sound financial reserve.

No Promises by Premier Manning

Premier E. C. Manning has made no promises. He repeatedly stated in his campaign speeches that Alberta has had a good government since the election of the Social Credit administration in 1935 and there is no reason to elect another party.

Mr. Manning said that "so long as a government is doing its job, surely the more experience it has the better". He said Alberta spends more per capita on education than any other province.

The government's dividend program, which cost the province about $20,000,000 in 1957 and 1958, was not brought up as an election issue. The program, which resulted in $20 annual payments to Albertans in 1957 and $17.50 in 1958, was suspended this year.

The program had been severely criticized by all opposition parties before Mr. Manning announced the government's five-year development plan last August. The dividend program was suspended for the duration of the plan, the money being turned over toward development of the province.

A total of 216 candidates are contesting the election. The Social Credit put 64 candidates in the field, Progressive Conservatives 60, Liberals 51 and CCF 32. Four Labor Progresssive party candidates have also been nominated, two Independent-Social Credit, one Coalition and two Independents.

Standing at dissolution was: Social Credit 37, Liberal 15, Progressive Conservative 3, CCF 2, Liberal-Conservative 1, Coalition 1, Independent 1, Independent Social Credit 1. Total 61. There will be 65 seats in the 14th legislature.

SHARK KILLS DIVER

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—A shark killed a skindiver while several persons watched from the beach 50 yards away Sunday.

No trace was found of Robert Pamperin, 35, a San Diego aircraft engineer.

"I was swimming about 15 feet from Bob," said his companion, Tom Lehrer, 30. "I heard him calling, 'Help me, help me.'"

"I swam over to him. He was thrashing in the water and I could tell he was fighting something underneath ..."

Lehrer said he ducked under the water and through his face plate saw a shark. "It was so big I thought at first it was a killer whale," he said. "It had a white belly and I could see its jaws and jagged teeth. ... It was a whopper ... about 12 feet. ... It was between me and Bob and I could see him kicking his legs at it ... but it kept biting at him. ..."

"But it was too late to do anything. ... Bob just went out of sight and I couldn't find him. So I swam to shore."

Lifeguards believed Pamperin was hit by a white shark—the same species blamed for fatally injuring 18-year-old Albert Kogler near San Francisco last month.

Ottawa Must Answer

IN ADVOCATING THE PEACE River power scheme the promoters and Mr. Bennett talk as if it were under the full control of the Provincial Government. This is not so if the scheme involves any export of power to the United States, as proposed by the Peace River Power Development Company. For under Canadian law only the Federal Government can authorize power exports, as Mr. Bennett suddenly discovered in the case of the abortive Kaiser dam.

Assuming, therefore, that the Peace River promotion depends on exports, even fractional exports, it is subject to the veto of the Federal Government. And in fairness to the promoters, the investors and the prospective consumers, the Federal Government should make clear from the beginning whether it intends to allow exports or not.

Certainly any man who is asked to invest a dollar in the promoters' budget of one billion dollars will want to know whether exports are essential to the scheme and whether they will be permitted. Until those facts are known the validity of the scheme cannot possibly be known. Nor, we imagine, can the promoters' stock and bonds be sold, for that kind of money doesn't grow on trees or on press statements from Mr. Mainwaring.

In a project so vast, and so vitally affecting the consumers of electricity, the Federal Government, as the guardian of national power management, has a grave responsibility. It should indicate without delay whether—in reversal of historic Canadian policy—it now intends to permit the export of Peace River power to the Pacific Northwest States, even if they will buy it at relatively high prices.

Up to now Federal Governments, both Liberal and Conservative, have not taken the Peace River scheme very seriously. They have assumed that the exploitation of the Columbia would provide all the power that British Columbia can use for many years to come, that simultaneous development of the Peace would be uneconomic and therefore not likely to attract private capital.

This assumption is challenged by the Peace River Power Development Company. According to Mr. Mainwaring, its president, the Peace scheme is going ahead anyway, no matter what happens on the Columbia. In his view there is an ample market for the output of both rivers, and besides, he says, the Columbia will be delayed at least until 1960 whereas the Peace scheme will put power into the Lower Mainland and Washington State by 1963 or 1966.

This certainly is not the opinion of the Canadian Government. It has always believed that if it can reach agreement with the United States the Columbia can be harnessed as quickly as the Peace—and much more cheaply per kilowatt hour.

General A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's representative on the International Joint Commission, says most of the obstacles to agreement already have been surmounted and he evidently expects the deal to be completed without much further delay, contrary to Mr. Mainwaring's expectation.

From General McNaughton's latest statement we take it that the Canadian Government is determined to get the Columbia scheme under way soon and to assure the consumers of British Columbia some of the cheapest electricity in the world.

But in the Peace promotion are the consumers also to be saddled with much more expensive electricity? Assuming that the promotion involves electrical exports, the question must be finally answered by the Federal Government as a matter of basic national policy. It should be answered right away.

After Mr. Massey's Example

MR. DIFENBAKER WILL ANNOUNCE the appointment of Canada's next Governor-General at the proper time. He will not, and should not, be hurried.

It is gratifying, nevertheless, to note the report of the well-informed Canadian Press that the successor to Mr. Massey will also be a Canadian. It would, moreover, be excellent if the choice at this time came from French-speaking Canada.

There should be no obligation, of course, on the prime minister to establish an alternating French-speaking, English-speaking system in the appointment of Governors-General. Nor, for that matter, should the choice of an appropriate person for the office be limited by narrowly national lines.

Nevertheless, after the outstanding success of Mr. Massey, this country knows that Canadians can do a superlative job of representing their monarch. No further proof is required on that point, and no self-consciousness should exist in respect to future appointments.

Next—Expunge That Black Print

FLORIDA LEGISLATORS HAVE brushed off segregationist David Hawthorn's efforts to have the book "The Three Little Pigs" banned in that state.

Mr. Hawthorn, with zealous attention to the theme of white supremacy, argued that of the three, the black little pig was portrayed as the smart one, since he alone built his house of bricks that withstood the huffing and puffing of the Big Bad Wolf. The flimsier structures of the white pig and the white-and-black pig were blown down.

Florida evidently can withstand the huffing and the puffing of Mr. Hawthorn. Alabama, on the other hand, has forced off the open library shelves "The Rabbit's Wedding" because in it a little black rabbit is depicted as a principal in a marriage to a little white rabbit.

So goes prejudice in some of the southern states.

But what's going to happen to all books when these conscientious segregationists make the disarming discovery that it is the black print on the white page which tells the story?

To be consistent, they should remove the black print. Which then leaves the field entirely clear for television—or does it bring in the universal use of white-on-black in photostats?

A Measure of Esteem

THE ROYAL JUBILEE HOSPITAL building fund campaign has gone over the top to a degree which will permit highly desirable improvements to the nurses' home.

The success of the drive is evidence not only of the energy and ability of those who conducted it, but a sure measure of the esteem in which the hospital is held in this community.

There are many calls made on the generosity of our people. A number of them near their targets only with the utmost difficulty. The fact that the Jubilee has received more than it expected from the public speaks for itself.

This is evidence of good will built up over the years, a recognition by Greater Victoria of the fine service the hospital has provided, and an appreciation of the part the public must play if that institution is to develop as it should to hold its place as an outstanding hospital in this nation.

A great response has been given to an honest appeal.

Dry Run to the Summit

WHATEVER THE PITFALLS that beset the path of foreign ministers meeting in Geneva to plot the trail to the summit, there aren't many gins.

The Associated Press reports the conference of 1939 the most non-alcoholic party of them all.

The news service states: "The luxurious bar set up for the conference stands almost empty at the Palace of Nations overlooking Lake Geneva. Not once in the first eight formal sessions was there the traditional break for relaxation and refreshment in the middle of discussions.

"At previous big international conferences here—including the 1955 summit meeting—the delegates recessed their sessions every day for what was euphemistically called a tea break.

"Precious little tea was consumed.

"This time liquor goes begging." Pathfinding foreign ministers preparing the way to the summit apparently realize they have a tortuous and rocky road to travel. This, they seem to be saying, is no time for impaired driving.

MAKEUP ARTISTS

By B. A. TOBIN

Endearing Young Charms

THE lure of cosmetics—both on counters for women, and on women for men—is so well established that even the people who manufacture and sell such things are able to advise the girls not to spend so much on them, knowing perfectly well that the advice will not be taken. Beauty may be only skin deep, but no law says it may not be laid on top of the skin to any desired thickness. The urge of women to do so has created a number of family fortunes in the United States and no doubt elsewhere.

Tobin

Beauty Budget

One of the leading purveyors of beauty in a jar and the proposition that you can cure an inferiority complex by curing an inferior complexion, is Helena Rubenstein. And no less an authority than she is on record with the statement that it is foolish for so many women to spend $300 a year on cosmetics when $200 would be enough. (Husband's Note: Enough!?)

A Vancouver style expert adds to this by saying that one of the most beautiful women she knows uses nothing but lard or shortening or some such thing to keep her skin perfect.

That's probably the way it started out in any case. Then they added a little perfume, and a little coloring, and a little of this and that until it was easy to convince the ladies that a one-ounce jar of it was the very thing they needed.

But while men may drown out their admiration for the results of cosmetics by laughter at the ways in which women pursue their objective, it's a little hard to claim that this is a completely feminine failing. If cosmetics are something used to make facts look a little better than they really are, our world is filled with things that fit the definition.

Doubtful Weapon

There are, for instance, armament cosmetics. It begins to seem as though the Bomarc is one of these. As a rocket missile it looks better than the Arrow jet plane, but there is some doubt that it will do much more than the manned craft.

It might turn out to be an expensively perfumed and highly colored covering for a lack of real armament in these days of rapidly changing war techniques. Miss Rubenstein may have a real rival in Mr. Pearlie.

Or take the cosmetics of provincial debt. Here is financial beautification elevated to an art. By colorful terminology, the addition of a little banana oil and prune juice, and an attractive wrapper, a provincial debt can be made to disappear almost at will, and the community can be given a prosperous complexion.

plexion which not even financial mascara or political rouge could achieve.

If the Government happens to look a little flushed about it all, it's probably only the heat from the burning provincial bonds. The lip-service is guaranteed miss-proof.

Perhaps we must go to Geneva to find as good an example of protective coloration and deceptive beauty. The diplomats are meeting there heavily coated with the perfume powder of German reunification. But there is strong doubt that either East or West really wants to see the restoration of full German strength, so heavy makeup has been used by all the delegates to make the two faces of international diplomacy appear as one.

That is a neat trick which none of the conventional cosmetic houses has been able to achieve. And it may work, as long as the fall-out from the powder puff doesn't prove to be radioactive.

These, perhaps, are extreme cases, but it would be a dull world if there were not some attempts to beautify it. Political mirrors, like those in the boudoir, show up wrinkles and sagging lines, fading eyes and thinning hair—all the encroachments of age on the body politic. Small wonder that great efforts are made to cover up, smooth over and add a little healthy-looking color.

Skin Game

The catch is, of course, that as with the products of the fashionable cosmetician, the cost of such artful deceptions may add up to a considerable sum over the years. The finances may end up in the rouge rather than in the mascara when the bill comes in, and the larceny of beauty may prove to be neither pretty nor petty.

The perfume may lose its charm, the beauty spot may hide a blemish, the tints may fade, the wrinkles show. In the world of the bougier and the beauty salon the encroachment of birthdays causes these sad effects. In the world of politics, election days may bring about a similar result. Small wonder that we try to buy postponement.

MARKED for READING SO MANY WAYS

I think that it is a complete fallacy to suppose that there is a way of going—Shakespeare—even to suppose that Shakespeare himself knew precisely what he meant. No artist does. No work of art worth its salt is entirely conscious. What makes a classic a classic nearly always creeps in over and above the author's literal and conscious intention; and every production of any play—be it a masterpiece or an ephemeral little comedy—must be a comment upon the work.

Sword of Damocles

The conference at Geneva is rapidly drawing to a close, barren of any promise of peace and the summit meeting is already doomed and may never take place.

We of the Western World have been blind to the fact that the Berlin crisis was engineered simply to take our attention away from the other four countries where the creeping power of Russia is making encroachments—Albania for instance and Iraq.

I personally look for great prosperity in the Western World through suddenly realizing that we may suffer the same ignominious fate as Hungary and Tibet. Therefore at the "eleventh hour" we will at long last practically prepare for the great tribulation fully described in the Good Book, Jeremiah xxx, verses 5 to 8.

The sword of Damocles is hanging by a thread! I have no axe to grind and this is my opinion and a warning to all who will take time to consider.

Why Give Them Space?

In matters of pure opinion or where the division of the irresponsible is not clearly defined from the responsible, the Times has always been duly forthright in reporting in fairly equal measure both sides of a news story.

However, when you are dealing with a subject as serious as fluoridation—when, as you well know, doctors, dentists and public health experts throughout North America are solidly in favor of fluoridation—why do you lend unwarranted power and dignity by banner headline and repeated quotation to opinions which are easily refutable on a scientific basis, obviously sensation-seeking in nature and manner of utterance, and completely biased by dangerously warped personal notions?

Loud-Mouth In the Gallery

I was very pleased to see the article about Billy Abbott still taking soccer lessons appearing in a recent issue of the Times. A little more such publicity would interest the many soccer fans and help promote the game in Victoria.

I watched the local team playing the Vancouver Halesos last Saturday—a very good game with an excellent brand of soccer. But I had the misfortune to be seated near some loud-mouthed nit-wits who did nothing but hurl abuse and vilification at the local boys, concentrating their abuse on one local boy who was doing his best and to my mind had more brains in his feet than were in the heads of his detractors.

I think the Victoria fans should remember that these boys are all hometown boys, not paid imported professionals and are playing in the toughest league against the best teams in Canada. The least we can do, if we go to the game at all, is to encourage them, not discourage them.

As Billy Abbott so well put it in the article in your paper, "I think we could do much better if we didn't have to play against the crowd." But I think he is wrong in that the vast majority of the crowd are pulling for the home team but one loud-mouthed bully—and they seem to have good lungs—can make as much noise as a dozen run-of-the-mill supporters.

We who are "not so young" are not in a position to censure these detractors.

Importance of Being Earnest

IMAGINE the American Foreign Service being so organized that every key officer in every legation and consulate in all the Arab lands, for instance, could speak fair Arabic. (In practice, almost none of them; either in the Arab lands or in any other uncommitted country, for that matter, can rise much higher than ordering a meal in a restaurant.) Imagine the United States mobilizing for the struggle for the world to the point where we could provide huge, well-equipped, camp-universities to give special training for our potential friends in the uncommitted countries. (In practice, the American fellowship programs for overseas students and leading foreign personalities are not only small in scale; they are also constantly menaced with further cuts by both Congress and the Bureau of the Budget.)

Imagine a foreign aid program so tough-minded yet so flexible that its methods would be tailored to each special situation, serving our interests in all cases without regard to political prejudice, paper work rules, or dog-good poppycock. (In this case, the contrast between imagination and practice is really too painful to dwell on.)

Imagine it is a complete fallacy to suppose that there is a way of going—Shakespeare—even to suppose that Shakespeare himself knew precisely what he meant. No artist does. We can only view them with silent contempt. But I wonder if some of the younger soccer enthusiasts could not rebuke the worst of these barkers? They would surely get the moral and vocal support of the large majority of the crowd.

As "one who played much soccer over half a century ago, I think our local team deserves every support and no discouragement from its supporters."

'One Night' Success

The members of the Solarium Junior League would like to thank the residents of Greater Victoria, Belmont Park, Brentwood, Colwood, Gordon Head, Langford, Sidney and Sooke for the wonderful support they gave the recent fund raising "One Night Drive" held in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium at Gordon Head.

The latest figures available indicate a gross collection of $20,491.88, and as the only expenses incurred for the printing of the collection kits and charges for two additional telephones will not exceed $153, a cheque for approximately $20,340 will be turned over to the Queen Alexandra Solarium for use in the day-to-day maintenance of the Solarium.

A most sincere thank you is extended to the many volunteer canvassers who so willingly gave their time to help make this fundraising drive such a success and also those residents who loaned their homes for use as collection points.

A very special thank you is extended to the many residents who were either not canvassed or not at home when the canvasser called but were sympathetic toward the Solarium Junior League's cause and were thoughtful enough to mail a donation, or request a member to call upon them to receive their donation.

The thirty-four members of the Solarium Junior League are most grateful for all the help they received and know that everyone who worked on or donated to this very worthy cause will be thanked for their help by the young patients of the Queen Alexandra Solarium themselves with each step forward they take.

Mass Medication

According to a Times report, June 5, Dr. Mahaffy says that fluoridation is not mass medication, and Mr. Sammon, past chairman of the Union Board of Health, wholeheartedly supports her. That view may be a qualification for a health officer and kindred fluoride-washed officials in some cities, but I venture the opinion that a referendum will give them a sharp rebuke.

When Dr. Mahaffy prescribes castor oil for Junior does she insist that all members of the family take the same dose? That's mass medication, precisely the same principle as fluoridating a city's water supply. Maudlin sympathy for the children and the inequality of the scheme is so obvious that it is odiferous.

established with such ruthless clarity that penetrable countries are divided into three classes: Class 1, where jolly co-operation "with the bourgeois" is desirable, as in Egypt until recently; Class 2, where more open support for the Communists is permissible, as in Iraq at present, and Class 3, where all support is concentrated behind the local Communists, as in Vietnam before the truce there.

But the temptation to tell Brig. Head's remarkable story in still greater detail must be resisted. There are reasons to hope that this exceptionally intelligent and original-minded Englishman will shortly be telling his own story in the United States, as he has already told it in the House of Commons. As it is very much his story, composed of data which he has gathered almost single-handed, the job of telling it in full must be left to him.

Best Proof

The foregoing facts are borrowed from Head, simply because they are the best available proof of the importance of being reasonably earnest about the vast struggle for the world.

As this reporter packs for the return journey to Washington, the thing that sticks in his craw like a poisoned chicken bone is the danger of America's own lack of earnestness.

Nikita Khrushchev may smile and smile, between gestures with his H-bombs. Andrei Gromyko may force himself to be relatively polite. But all the while, these men of the Kremlin and their Communist collaborators in other countries are in deadly earnest, endlessly searching for weak points in the armor of the West, endlessly organizing to exploit the West's weaknesses whenever and wherever they appear.

Khrushchev and Gromyko and the rest of them are not bored with the Geneva conference, for example, and they are not complacent about the outcome, either. They are just as intensely interested, they are just as lacking in complacency as the hungry, lowering hawks of the Soviet Union.

Of course Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his staff are not bored either. On the contrary, their vigilance and stoutness at Geneva have been altogether admirable. But judging by the reports from home, the mood in Washington is flatulently complacent, and so it seems to be in most of the Western capitals.

Yet if the West is beaten at Berlin, and if the Communists win the uncommitted countries, and if other quite imaginable defeats are inflicted on us, lack of earnestness will be the chief cause.

The Ottoman

"I've put you in Dora's old room," Ellen said to Laura as they carried the two suitcases upstairs. "Isn't this modern luggage light and pretty? What air travel has done to the way we live."

"It's the speed and ease," said Laura. "When you think of what the journey from Europe used to be. Do you remember when we first came out to B.C. in 1907?"

Ellen nodded. "Like another world."

Laura felt a surge of thankfulness. "But this house doesn't seem to change. Oh, Ellen, you don't know how glad I am to be in this room again. It's so comforting, somehow."

"I'll make some tea," said Ellen, "and you come down when you're ready. No hurry. We're not going to hurry while you're here. This is my little holiday as well as yours."

Dear Ellen, Laura thought. You could be away for months, and fly back from half across the world, and Ellen in this island home would be just the same, as if the intervening time had never been.

It was almost as if there were a charm upon the place, she thought, hanging her dresses in the cupboard and putting some of her things in the drawer Ellen had cleared in the dressing table. The dogwood, a little larger than it used to be, was still there at the end of the lawn, and beyond it, Mount Baker rose above the wooded islands. Even the swallows were still nesting in the eaves above the bedroom's dormer window.

Ruth Enke

If she knew Ellen, Laura thought, there'd be fresh, crisp Petit Beurre biscuits in the little hand-painted cookie tin beside the bed. "I always think it's nice to have something to nibble in the night if you're hungry." How often Laura had heard Ellen say exactly that.)

Yes, the cookie tin was part of it; the cookie tin on the table, the ottoman at the foot of the bed, and, on the dressing table, the squat, brown pottery vase that Ellen always filled with "cottage flowers" when she was preparing the room for a visitor.

Laura touched the soft petal of a fierce-faced pansy, and bent down to enjoy its special scent.

"Such cross little things," she said to herself. "So often frowning. I can't think why people talk as if pansies were always gentle, loving little flowers."

"I hope you'll be comfortable," Ellen said when Laura went downstairs to have a cup of tea. "I put three blankets on the bed, but if you should want more there are plenty in the ottoman."

"With lavender bags between?" asked Laura.

"Yes, I still make fresh ones every year. For the linen mostly. But I tuck the extras in among the blankets. The family tease me about it. Mother and her lavender bags, they say. And no one nowadays has an ottoman, they tell me."

"No," said Laura. And then they were silent because there was so much to tell that they hardly knew where to begin.

LABOR MP WON'T DROP COMMUNIST CHARGES

LONDON (Reuters) — A 72-year-old Labor member of Parliament Sunday refused to withdraw charges he made in Berlin last month that some fellow Labor legislators are Communists or undercover Communists.

John McGovern was asked to withdraw his statement by party secretary Morgan Phillips.

"Your demand for names is intended to silence me or attempt to cast doubt on my statement. It seems to be in some way related to the fear of the effect during the election year," McGovern said in answering Phillips' demand with a statement to the press.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Pickles Is Big Favorite

LONDON—Names in the news. Wilfred Pickles is a name that rings a loud bell with English people settled in Canada.

For many a long year he has been one of the biggest names in British radio and TV. Nearest equivalent would be to say that he was the Arthur Godfrey of this country.

He got his start in the war years as a newscaster when the BBC chose his North Country voice as a way of getting away from the usual cultured tones of the London newscasters. From this he went on to all sorts of audience-participation shows that made his name a household word.

But what will be more to English exiles in Canada is where Pickles stands today.

His latest endeavor is a small part in a new film called Serious Charge, a part so small he doesn't appear on the credits. But he's glad of the work. He's a sad man these days. "I'm afraid I'm a has been," he confesses.

When someone who has been in the big time winds up being thankful for bit parts it is usual for people in the entertainment business and pressmen who've had many contacts with him over the years to feel sorry for him. But the Pickles off-stage personality is such that in this case it doesn't apply.

Viscount Montgomery has found that the writing game can be embarrassing.

financially. He's making so much money out of his memoirs that he's in a tax jam.

Present sales of the memoirs stand at 195,000 and from these royalties, plus serialization, etc., he's had a writing windfall so far of $250,000. This one year's income is well in excess of what he has earned in 15 years as a field marshal.

To accept this money in one big chunk he would have to wave most of it goodbye to the tax man. So... he's used the evasion of going onto the staff of his publishers—as a military adviser. This way he can spread the lead over many years of salary, all sorts of expenses such as a car and trips abroad for research on future books, plus contributions to an elaborate pension scheme with the firm, which helps to get around death duties.

Tony Locke, with Jim Laker, has been one of the pair of spin-bowling heroes of English cricket over the past few years. But Locke at the moment is rather in oblivion—for an ironic reason.

When England was trounced by Australia a few months back, one of the excuses was that at least three of the Australian bowlers were "chuckers"—i.e., they threw the ball baseball style instead of bowling it with a stiff arm. The outcome was that the cricket bosses said that this season they would crack down hard on such illegal tactics.

This rebounded on Locke, who's been chucking throughout his career and getting away with it. So for the first few games he was banished to the Surrey second team to practice bowling properly and now, back in Surrey's main side, he's yet to have any success as a legitimate bowler.

HOME GARDEN

Exhibiting Adds Incentive

If you are what might be termed lukewarm gardeners, try exhibiting some of your garden produce. It is not too late to take action on entering some of your fine roses.

which the Victoria Horticultural Society is staging on Friday and Saturday at the Crystal Garden. Don't let inexperience in showing prevent you from making an entry. Even though your exhibit may not win a prize, you will soon find out why, and be able to apply the information for future use.

INCENTIVE
Many young couples exhibiting flowers this spring for the first time have told me they find it gives incentive to their gardening program. There's a more definite reason for having a garden, and knowledge gained from showing even one type of flower creates the desire to show more in the future.

All exhibitors at local shows are classed as amateurs, though naturally some are more experienced than others. Certain classes are reserved for novices, that is, for those who have never won a first prize in similar classes.

HERE'S HOW
If you wish to enter an exhibit in this week's show, you should first contact the secretary of the society tonight at Granite 1-3265 for a catalogue. The entry form must be returned to him before Wednesday evening.

Flowers, vegetables, and artistic arrangement classes are included and you need not be a member to make an entry. All rules apply equally to members and non-members.

Since talking to new exhibitors this season, I feel that local flower shows should receive fresh impetus from many new gardeners among us.

It is not unusual for a first-time exhibitor to walk off with silver cups and prizes on his first attempt—providing he has good material to show, and follows the rules closely for each entry.

Good luck to all new exhibitors.

RARE BEAUTY — Two-year-old Marilyn Kraszewski is one of the few North Americans to get this close to a Dall sheep, caught in 7,000-foot mountains in the Yukon when he was one day old. Brought to Al Oeming's wildlife farm near Edmonton, the pure-white variety of Rocky Mountain big-horn is doing well on a diet of milk. The rare sheep are seldom captured because of their agility and the rough terrain in which they live. — (CP Photo.)

Surgical Supplies Price Fix Found

OTTAWA (CP) — The Restrictive Trade Practices Commission said today price fixing was practised by two manufacturers of surgical supplies, one Canadian and one American.

The report made public today by Justice Minister Fulton said Bard-Parker Company, of Danbury, Conn., which manufactures surgical blades and other products, employed a contract system "intended to secure resale price maintenance". The system "cannot be regarded as inoffensive" under the Combines Investigation Act.

It said further that Sterling Company, of Guelph, Ont., attempted to induce dealers to sell its products not below its suggested resale prices on threat of termination of dealership or delays in filling orders.

Mr. Fulton said in releasing the report that "the usual consideration will be given to the question of what further steps ought to be taken".

The report made no recommendations, although it suggested at one point that the combines act is lacking in that "relating to resale price maintenance it makes no distinction in the matter of liability between a principal and an agent, when the latter is a dealer within the meaning of which makes surgeons' gloves, the section".

18-INCH RAIN HAVOC KILLS 22 IN HONG KONG

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Twenty-two persons died Sunday as torrential rains swept this British colony off the China coast for the third straight day.

The over-all death toll is 38 persons, all Chinese, who perished as wooden tenements and squatters' shacks in the densely-settled central district were washed away.

Twenty-eight persons were reported injured Sunday. The number missing is still unknown. The collapse of two wooden tenements Sunday morning is believed to have buried 74 persons.

Eighteen inches of rain fell in three days—sometimes at the rate of four inches an hour—causing damage worth millions of dollars.

Rescue workers dug through mud, rubble and the shattered timbers of tenements. One man was found alive after being trapped for 12 hours.

Canada A-Plant Cost Doubled

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP) —Canada's first atomic power plant will cost about $30,000,000 — nearly double an original estimate — but research and development work on the project will reduce considerably the cost of future nuclear stations.

The plant — an experimental station known by the code name NPD — is being built at Rolphton, Ont., near the Des Joachim generating station of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario on the Ottawa River. It is 18 miles northwest of the Crown-owned atomic establishment of Chalk River and some 150 miles northwest of Ottawa.

When plans for construction of NPD were announced in 1955 it was estimated the cost would be about $15,000,000. The new forecast of $30,000,000 takes into account redesign of the original plant and a large volume of research which will cut development costs of future plants.

JOINT UNDERTAKING

NPD is being built jointly by Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, Ontario Hydro and Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. The $30,000,000 includes $2,000,000 to be paid by the latter and the cost of the steam turbines and generators being built by Ontario Hydro. The plant will develop 20,000 kilowatts of electric power which will be fed into Ontario Hydro's distribution system in June, 1961. It will not produce power at a cost competitive with coal-burning electric plants but will provide the information needed to make future plants economic.

Murder Cases Strain Judge, Jury—Manson

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the Supreme Court of British Columbia took a close look Wednesday at the death sentence and said it is "a terrible emotional trial for the judge."

"But it's a terrible strain for the jury, too," said the 75-year-old justice, here as a delegate to the 85th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

He said in an interview he believes that in his 24 years on the bench he has said the words, "to be hanged by the neck until you are dead . . . and may God have mercy on your soul," at least a dozen times.

Mr. Justice Manson, a native of St. Louis, Mo., said he has no fixed opinion on the abolition of capital punishment. But it was time the federal government did something about the consistent commutations of the death penalty to life imprisonment.

He said parliament should consider the question and settle it.

"Degrees of murder should be considered. I admit it's hard to draw the line but it does work in the U.S."

There are degrees of good in every man, he said. If a man pays the supreme penalty for murder, there is no chance of fanning that good into a flame.

"The answer is a good chaplaincy service in the penitentiaries. We should be prepared to pay for at least half a dozen chaplains from various churches in each penitentiary."

Surplus from Norway's government-sponsored soccer pools goes to finance research projects and to aid sports promotion.

Youths Convicted, Lives Spared

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) —The all-white jury which convicted four white youths for the mass rape of a Negro co-ed decided against the death penalty because there was no evidence of brutality, the jury foreman said Sunday night.

A. H. King, a Tallahassee plantation owner, described how the verdict was reached as an atmosphere of calm returned to this Florida capital city after weeks of tension.

King said that "on the basis of the testimony before us there was evidence of threats with a gun and knife but no brutality was involved". The rape occurred May 2.

The foreman said the case was decided on "the law and the evidence" without any consideration of race.

Dr. A. Joseph Reddick, pastor of the Bethel A.M.E. Church and a former state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the decision against a death penalty resulted from "ingrained prejudice by a white jury".

The four defendants appeared stunned by the verdict. They were whisked off to Raiford State Prison after the jury reported at 12:35 a.m. Sunday.

The four youths will remain at Raiford until their sentencing, expected in about 30 days. Judge W. May Walker gave no hint of the penalties he will impose. Under Florida law he can go as high as life imprisonment or he could let them off with probation.

Frank Found Right Bounce

Brilliant Putting Display Helps Uplands Ace to City Golf Crown

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Newly-crowned city amateur golf champion Frank Scroggs is living proof today that "one never knows which way the ball is apt to bounce."

He recalled an early morning conversation with Uplands club captain Claude Heggie as they were driving to Gorge Vale Sunday.

"I wonder," Scroggs remembers saying, "what possible reason can there be for us to be going to the Gorge?"

Frank was eight strokes behind the leader as he headed his car towards Gorge Vale Golf Club and Sunday's final round of the 54-hole city medal tournament.

Some six hours later Scroggs had his answer as he walked away from the Gorge Vale clubhouse with the city amateur trophy tucked under his arm. Heggie, although a non-winner, appeared happy enough while totting Scroggs' merchandise reward.

The ball took the right bounce for Mr. Scroggs on this particular Sabbath.

A brilliant short-iron game and an even more sensational putting display carried the popular 36-year-old Uplands ace to one of the finest come-backs in the history of the city championship.

He needed only 22 putts in carving out a two-under-par 70 to win his first major title with a 54-hole count of 226. He counted the almost unbelievable total of nine putts on the first nine greens.

Gorge Vale's Dave (Pudge) Fanthorpe, leader after last weekend's 36 holes with 148, carded a 79 to finish a stroke behind. Fanthorpe, a two-handicap player like Scroggs, blew his chances for victory when he took bogeys on the final two holes to finish with 227.

Gorge Vale junior Al MacLeod finished third, 78-72-78-228. Two Colwood golfers—veteran Bill McColl and Big Vince Clarkson—shared fourth with Gorge Vale's John Merriam. And another stroke behind at 230 came defending champion Laurie Kerr.

But Scroggs appeared as surprised as anybody at his victory.

Two Strokes Scroggs Won't Forget

"When we were driving out, Claude and I figured I'd need at least a 66 to come close. I didn't believe Laurie (Kerr) or Pudge would fade."

KEY SHOTS

While Kerr and Fanthorpe had their troubles, Scroggs believes two strokes—a 20-foot putt on the 12th and a recovery shot on the fifth—won the city crown for him.

On the 368-yard fifth he pushed his tee shot into some timber. He was forced to play his approach with a restricted backswing but nevertheless dropped his ball to within five feet of the pin. He dropped the putt for his par.

It was one of the seven oneputt greens he played on the outgoing nine.

He dropped a short chip shot on the first hole for a birdie three. On the second, he two-putted for a par but then raked up seven straight one-putt greens for an impressive three-under 33.

DOUBLE ROLL

The big putt on the 12th was his longest of the day. It was a down-hill ride with a double roll that proved difficult to read.

"I didn't know how to read that putt," Scroggs said, "but I played it for the left corner of the cup and that's where it dropped."

Generally, Scroggs' pitching was such that he had numerous putts in the five to 10-foot range. But he kept knocking those "teasers" down with monotonous regularity.

The only one he missed was a five-footer on the 18th. And that gave him the only bogey on his card, a five for an incoming nine of 37.

HANDICAP CHAMP

Vince Wheatley, a nine-handicapper from the Gorge, captured low net laurels by coming up with a net-69. His 54-hole net score of 207 edged MacLeod by three strokes.

Fourteen-year-old Gary Smith of Colwood, who held a five-stroke edge in the handicap division after the first 36 holes, wound up in third place with 211.

Montreal Bank Trying to Beat Loan Limits

MONTREAL (CP) - Investment men from all parts of North America begin a study today of the Canadian economy during sessions of the 12th annual convention of the National Federation of Financial Analysts Societies.

More than 850 delegates, most of them from the United States, are expected for the four-day convention, the first time it has been held in Canada.

Business sessions will be concerned exclusively with Canada. Eleven field trips have also been scheduled in the fact-finding examinations of the Canadian economy.

In a statement announcing the new loan plan to go into effect at all offices immediately - president G. Arnold Hart said the interest would apply to the actual outstanding balance and payments would be made once a month. Although there is a charge to cover processing and service, "the overall cost to the customer... is lower than generally prevails for consumer financing in Canada."

He said all loans would be life-insured.

SET $3,500 LIMIT
The bank has set a $3,500 top limit for the loans with the repayment period running as long as three years.

The statement said many of the loans had been made on an unsecured basis, although chattel security and other types of security may be taken where such collateral is available.

Hart said the "family finance plan" includes a provision for "ever-ready credit." This provides personal credit, based on the customer's income and commitments, and available for his use at any time.

The customer could issue cheques at any time up to the limit of his prearranged credit.

Although called a family plan, the new loan system "will be equally at the disposal of the single person," Mr. Hart said.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Western Oil Index At Three-Year Low

A cumulative slump in western oil featured trading today, leading other issues fractionally.

Industrial was the only exception to the general trend, up almost one point before profit-taking cut gains by fractions.

Volume was light but still showed a gain over Friday's inactive day, 1,825,000 shares compared to 1,654,000.

AT TORONTO on index, western oils dipped more than 1 1/2 points, and with a rating of 121.00 touched a low for 1957-58-59. Base metals were up more than one point while industrial and golds were down a little more than three-quarters. Industrial were up almost a point in the first hour before light profit-taking cut fractions off wide number of issues.

The 2 p.m. volume was 1,825,000 shares, compared with Friday's 1,654,000 at the same hour. Most of the active speculators were easier.

Seniors were the major losers in western oils while Ford A led industrial winners, up 2 1/4 at 176 1/4, a 1959 high for the issue.

Seniors were weak in base metals and junior coppers were off pennies. Losses in golds ranged from Campbell Red Lake's 1/4 at 11 1/4, to McIntyre's 1/4 at 50.

Index losses: Industrial 84 to 532.12; golds 86 to 93.45; base metals 1.10 to 173.57; western oils 1.28 to 121.00.

AT MONTREAL, losses somewhat outnumbered gains, with both, except for a few gains, confined to a fractional range early this afternoon. Volume was modest, especially in the mines.

Heavy industrial and oils and pipelines were off. TransCanada, Aluminum and International Nickel all declined fractionally.

General Dynamics gained 1 1/4 at 53.

Utilities and papers were mixed, while an irregularly strong banking group saw Royal up 1/4 at 87.

Penny issues were down as Okalta dropped 10 cents to 90 cents, but Commonwealth Petroleum at 3.00 was up 90 cents.

Industrial volume was 61,600 shares, mines and oils, 226,700.

AT NEW YORK coppers, plywoods and aircrafts took some sharp losses as Wall Street declined in quiet trading today.

Down about 2 points were Anaconda and Magma Copper. Phelps Dodge lost about a point and Kennecott well over a point.

General Dynamics slipped about 2.

On the Canadian list, Aluminum Ltd. was off 1/4. Distillers Seagrams 1/4. Dome Mines and Interprovincial Nickel both 1/4. Hudson Bay Mining 1/4 and McIntyre Porcupine 1.

AT LONDON industrial groups improved but gains were generally limited to a few pence.

Loading oil shares were firmer. Gold shares were quiet. Grey bonds, which have been subject to considerable speculative activity in recent weeks, lost some ground.

AT VANCOUVER trading was brisk with prices firmer during the forenoon.

Vantor traded 4,500 at 79. Peace River Pote moved 3,100 at 62. Bethlehem Copper sold 4,000 at $1.76. Caribou traded 11,800 at $1.32. Giant Mascot moved 9,000 at 25.

British Exports Up as Imports Show Decline

LONDON (Reuters) - The gap between Britain's imports and exports dropped to £1,500,000 in May, the lowest level on record, the board of trade reported Saturday.

May exports reached a record £29,200,000 (£37,760,000) a rise of about $9,800,000 from April. Imports dropped about $9,800,000 to £30,900,000 (£39,520,000).

The "trade gap" figure, the difference between imports and exports, is not a true one, the board of trade says.

Imports are valued at higher relative figures than exports, including freight and insurance charges on arrival in British ports. Exports are valued "free on board" at British ports.

Hence, Britain may have shown a sizable surplus of exports over imports in May, taking into account "invisible earnings," such as interest and dividends on capital invested abroad.

$ EXCHANGE

MONTREAL (CP) - Investment men from all parts of North America begin a study today of the Canadian economy during sessions of the 12th annual convention of the National Federation of Financial Analysts Societies.

More than 850 delegates, most of them from the United States, are expected for the four-day convention, the first time it has been held in Canada.

Business sessions will be concerned exclusively with Canada. Eleven field trips have also been scheduled in the fact-finding examinations of the Canadian economy.

In a statement announcing the new loan plan to go into effect at all offices immediately - president G. Arnold Hart said the interest would apply to the actual outstanding balance and payments would be made once a month. Although there is a charge to cover processing and service, "the overall cost to the customer... is lower than generally prevails for consumer financing in Canada."

He said all loans would be life-insured.

SET $3,500 LIMIT
The bank has set a $3,500 top limit for the loans with the repayment period running as long as three years.

The statement said many of the loans had been made on an unsecured basis, although chattel security and other types of security may be taken where such collateral is available.

Hart said the "family finance plan" includes a provision for "ever-ready credit." This provides personal credit, based on the customer's income and commitments, and available for his use at any time.

The customer could issue cheques at any time up to the limit of his prearranged credit.

Although called a family plan, the new loan system "will be equally at the disposal of the single person," Mr. Hart said.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other attractive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Agnes Ann Schroeder, aged 12, of Many, La., for her question:

What is a Gecko?

The geckos form a branch of the lizard clan. They have all the advantages of the ordinary lizard, plus a few of their own. They are cold-blooded, scaly-skinned little fellows, well able to take care of themselves. Like most lizards they can be fast and agile and, like all lizards, they can regrow a lost tail.

Most lizards, however, are almost helpless without sunlight. They love to bask lazily in the sun. This often leads to trouble, for they are exposed to their enemies. Not so the gecko. He is a creature of the night and rarely, if ever, ventures forth during daylight hours. Though he can see in daylight his vision is best suited to the night. The little gecko has the long slit-like pupils of the cat.

A number of lizards can hiss and make warning noises when cornered. But the gecko has a true voice and can utter all kinds of remarks. The name gecko comes from the call of a six-inch native of Indo-China. This is large for a gecko. He lives more or less as a house guest with humans. True, his noisy night conversation is a little hard to take but this is offset by the good he does. The gecko is a great insect eater and, wherever he lives, there are no cockroaches or other insect pests.

So, unlike their lizard cousins, almost all the geckos have a voice and most are noisy chatterboxes. Some squeak, some chirp, some make a giggling noise and certain geckos keep Africans awake with a chorus of shrill whistles. Between songs, thousands of them skitter to and fro devouring vast quantities of pesky insects.

There are geckos of one sort or another throughout the Orient. They are in Africa, Indo-China and Australia. There are a number of New World geckos. As a group, they prefer tropical or semi-tropical climates, so most of the New World geckos live in Central and South America. However, six varieties live in the southwestern United States.

Andy sends a Hammonds Ambassador World Atlas to Ronald Baxter, age 12, of Christiana, Penn., for his question:

How Big is Our Universe?

A few years ago most experts were sure that our universe, or big cartwheel galaxy, was the largest of its kind. Some recent reckoning, however, has changed this old idea. We are not told that our universe is average in size. There are bigger ones and smaller ones.

Universe distance is measured in light years. If you want the dimensions in miles, you simply multiply the number of light years by 6,000,000,000,000, because each light year is equal to about six million million miles.

The width of our great cartwheel galaxy is roughly 100,000 light years. It thickens towards the hub where the stars are most dense. The central thickness tapers along spiraling arms to the outer edge of sparsely scattered stars. At the central hub of the big wheel our universe is about 10,000 light years thick, which is one-tenth of the vast span from side to side.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Did it ever happen to you? We made a speed cop awfully mad. He followed us carefully, sneakily, for 10 miles, ducking behind bridges and signboards, and the reason he got so mad was—we weren't speeding!

Jack Paar's one-time writer, Jack Douglas, became a comedian (again) at Den in the Duane. Best-seller author Douglas attracted a fairish crowd of night owls who thought his material was "inside," "hip," and all that jazz. Some samples: "I went to a literary party where everybody who attended had a beard—even some of the men."

Lisa Kirk takes a shower in her supper club act: You walk out humming the plumbing... I lived in a town so small we didn't even have a village idiot. We all took turns... I live on the top floor of a burning building. It's inconvenient, but the rent is awfully reasonable. Whether Douglas was up to Paar or below Paar, I want to ponder for a while.

The great Toots Shor's restaurant closing is now set for Tuesday, June 30—and the opening of the new and bigger Toots' is scheduled for around Thanksgiving. Toots is to be given a party by his chums June 23 and when asked who's going to pay for it, Toots said, very simply, "You guys are!"

It will be a sad night for many of us who regarded Toots—as an institution rather than as a saloon. In that building soon to come down I have met such great people as Mark Hellinger, Jimmy Walker, Rags Ragland, Herman Hickman, Bill Corum, Jimmy Dorsey, Tommy Dorsey, Bob Hannegan, Steve Hannegan, Robert Sherwood, Mike Jacobs, Eddy Duchin, and Babe Ruth—each one a movie in himself, and each one now dead. Harry S. Truman used to go there when he was vice-president.

One night a great crowd of autograph fans was outside. "Who are you waiting for? Vice-President Truman?" I asked them. "No," they scoffed, "for Robert Walker!" (the popular young screen actor, now dead). A couple of weeks later Harry Truman became president of the U.S.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

two private guards and erected fences around their rented home near London, to keep autograph fans away... Gabby Hayes, visiting Yonkers Raceway, wouldn't make a bet till he'd inspected the horses' teeth. Anne "Two for the Seesaw" Bancroft flew to Albany to attend an Errol Garner concert.

Tommy Manville says he may have to get married again: "Mickey Rooney's getting too close to my record." ... A restaurant chain folded its Tin Pan Alley branch because "songwriters seem to be too poor to eat." ... The tune "La Plume de Ma Tante"—which was written after the show opened—has become so popular that it may be included now... Anthony Quinn hopes to get to Bway in Anna Sosenko's "Passionate Journey."

Earl's Pearls: When a man says his wife isn't as big a nag as she used to be, he probably means that she's on a diet.

Wish I'd Said That: Reporters interviewing Brigitte Bardot must find out the who, what, where, why and wow!

Today's Best Laugh: We heard of a guy who's making money by exposing girls—he sells Bikinis.

They tell of the Actors Studio member who's always studying. When she goes to an optometrist to read an eye chart, she takes her drama coach along.

That's the earl, brother.

Earl Wilson

1,200 Liberty Ships

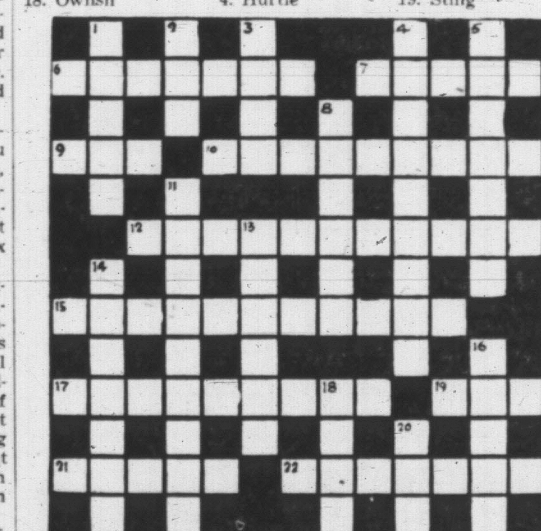

Head for Scrap Heap

NEW YORK (CP).—The New York Times says almost 1,200 Second World War freighters known as Liberty ships have been written off as weapons in the United States arsenal because the navy considers they are only good for scrap. The cut affects all but about 200 Liberty ships laid up in U.S. reserve fleets.

WAR STRATEGY HELPED REDS

U.S. Generals Back Monty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two U.S. generals today gave support to British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery's claim that Allied strategy in the Second World War let Russia gain possession of central Europe.

Gen. Mark W. Clark (ret.), commander of the U.S. 5th

Army in Italy during the war, said he agreed with Montgomery that the Allied invasion of southern France had made it possible for the Russians to capture Vienna.

"I agree with what Montgomery has to say," Clark said, "because I felt the same way. I have always felt that the weakening of the Italian campaign in order to invade southern France, instead of pushing on north in Italy and then into the Balkans, was one of the outstanding political mistakes of the war."

Lt. Gen. Hobert R. Gay (ret.), chief of staff for Gen.

George C. Patton's U.S. 3rd Army, said "American forces could have entered Prague in Czechoslovakia before the Russians, but 'we were not allowed to advance'."

Montgomery recently has attacked U.S. wartime commanders and their strategy. President Eisenhower, then supreme Allied commander in Europe, was a principal target.

Montgomery pictured American service chiefs as "working on the philosophy that all military action must be based on purely military decisions and that you mustn't bother about political repercussions."

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT ... not worth it

U.S. Nearly Got Colonies As Collateral

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt considered accepting British colonies in the West Indies in 1941 as security for United States lend lease aid, but decided they would only prove to be "two million headaches."

The late president's views were disclosed in a series of state department diplomatic papers made public Sunday.

Roosevelt, in a memorandum to Secretary of State Cordell Hull, on January 11, 1941, said that if the United States could get naval bases in the British West Indies "why should we buy them with 2,000,000 headaches?"

He said the "headaches" would consist of "that number of human beings who would be a definite economic drag on this country and who would stir up questions of racial stocks by virtue of their new status as United States citizens."

'Most Vicious Anti-Labor Law' Fayed

PENTICTON (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Public Employees described the province's new Trades Union Act Sunday as "without doubt a most vicious anti-labor law."

A resolution passed at the closing session of the federation's convention here called members, employees of municipalities and school boards, to vote at the next provincial election for candidates pledged to repeal of the Act.

During the two-day convention delegates heard two guest speakers describe the act, passed at the last session of the B.C. legislature, as a measure aimed against organized labor.

President William Black of the B.C. Federation of Labor said Saturday the act was passed by the Social Credit government to "pay-off its indebtedness to big business" and because the government "made certain commitments when it came to power."

He said the measure, known originally as Bill 43, was part of a "deliberate premeditated and well-planned attack" on organized labor throughout North America.

Director R. P. Rintoul of the National Union of Public Employees said the Act is part of a trend across the country against the working man. He said members should be "wide awake" because "if these things don't directly affect us today, they could tomorrow."

The convention approved a change in its constitution to bring its name in line with that of similar organizations in other provinces. It will be known in future as the National Union of Public Employees, B.C. Division.

(From Duncan Bureau) Funeral services for Tierney Patrick Barry, 83, who died Saturday in King's Daughters' Hospital, Duncan, were held at Mill Bay United Church at 2.30 p.m. today, and interment took place in the churchyard cemetery.

Born at Cobble Hill, he lived there all his life. He was a blacksmith by trade, and in 1917 opened a garage at Cobble Hill and worked in it until a month before his death.

TOFINO—Death of 11-year-old Fraser Schick in a highway accident here June 2 was accidental, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury at an inquest here.

The lad was riding his bicycle to school when he collided with an oil truck driven by Lloyd Nelson of Ucluelet, and suffered a fractured skull. Death was believed instantaneous.

NO BLAME

The jury attached no blame to the truck driver, but recommended that safety rules be taught in schools, and that a police officer make regular visits to instruct children in highway procedures.

Shortly after the accident Tofino Chamber of Commerce wrote to Attorney-General Robert Bonner asking for a policeman to be stationed at Tofino full time.

Moving force behind the request was Thomas Gibson, chamber president, who also is coroner here.

MORE COMING

"It is felt that the Village of Tofino has grown to such an extent that a permanent policeman is needed here," the chamber wrote. "On completion of the new Tofino-Alberni Highway it is expected many new residents will move into the area."

Funeral services for the young accident victim, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Schick of Kennedy Lake, were held in Vancouver.

'Soap Box' David Scores Double Win

(From Duncan Bureau)

David Woodley, 12, last year's Western Canada soap box champion, added more silverware to his collection with a double win in the all-Island run at Chemainus Sunday.

David sped to victory in the junior event, then edged senior winner John Goldspink to win the grand championship.

Although there were a number of out-of-town entries, Chemainus lads completely dominated the events with only one "foreign" driver winning any honors.

Class "A" senior winner was John Goldspink. Wayne Diederickson of Nanaimo was second, and Larry Wilson third.

David Woodley was the Class "B" junior winner, with Bob Karr second and Kenny Beasley third.

Consolation winner was Bill Jameson.

In a special run for Chemainus drivers only, to determine the winner of an all-expense trip paid to Mission July 1 for the Western Canada soap box championships, John Goldspink came out on top.

Six other Chemainus drivers who will make the trip to Mission on their own are Larry Wilson, Wayne Duncan, Bill Jameson, Bob Karr, Trevor Cook and Kenny Beasley.

Murder Suspect To Higher Court

CAMPBELL RIVER —

Ernest James Keen, 47, was committed for trial here Saturday on a charge of murder in connection with the death April 17 of Frank Wilson at Pendrell Sound on East Redonda Island, east of here. He will be tried at the criminal assizes at a later date.

John Vasseur, logging operator at Forbes Bay, near Pendrell Sound, said Keen came to his camp at 4 a.m. April 17 and asked him to phone a doctor and police in Campbell River.

BUTCHER KNIFE

According to Vasseur, Keen said Wilson, employee on an oyster scow, had come to his cabin. A fight started and he stabbed Wilson with a butcher knife.

Other witnesses said Wilson had left the scow earlier with two cases of home-made beer.

(From Duncan Bureau)

Funeral services will be held at Chemainus Baptist Tuesday at 10 a.m. for Mrs. Florence Ona Hart, 76, who died Saturday in Ladysmith General Hospital.

Born in Boston, Mass., she had lived in Chemainus for eight years, and also had made her home in Vancouver, Nanaimo and Port Alberni.

Her husband, Bert Hart, died in 1936. Surviving are three sons, Frederick and Elmore in Chemainus, and Harold, Winnipeg.

About 250 Scouts, Cubs and their parents enjoyed a get-together and campfire at Fairbridge School, near Duncan.

A film on the life of Lord Baden-Powell was shown to the group in the school gymnasium and a cheery campfire followed outside. Refreshments were served later.

Scout officials expressed appreciation to the school board for making facilities at the school available for the occasion.

Fight Shapes Up On V.I. Gas Line

NANAIMO (CP) — Island Transmission Company Ltd. will oppose the application of Magna Pipeline Company Ltd. to build and operate a system to supply natural gas on Vancouver Island.

R. M. Bond, president of the company, who also heads the Vancouver Island Gas Company here, said Saturday Island Transmission is opposing the Magna application because it is anxious to see natural gas brought over from the mainland as soon as possible and his company plans a similar application to that of Magna.

A public hearing has been set for July 6 on the Magna application. The application does not include a request to build or operate retail systems. The gas would be sold to retailers.

Island Transmission directors, in addition to Mr. Bond, include Alan Taylor of London, England; Brig. William Murphy, Vancouver, and Frank Hall of Vancouver.

New Mystery Blast Rocks Duncan Area

DUNCAN — Police are investigating a blast reported from the Maple Bay-Stamps Road area Friday at 1.15 a.m. which shook homes in the area and awakened several residents.

It is the fourth unexplained explosion in the area in the last eight months.

The first and most severe was on Halloween, and the second destroyed the mail box of Cowichan High School principal R. M. Lendrum on Jaynes Road.

Third occurred just after midnight May 9 and was reported over a radius of 10 miles.

Two explanations have been offered for the Halloween blast—that it was an aircraft breaking the sound barrier, or an explosion of dynamite in a gravel pit near Fairbridge School.

Game Group Shoots Down Mayor's Plan

NANAIMO (CP) — The Nanaimo Fish and Game Protective Association has rejected a suggestion by Mayor Pete Maffeo that members build a replica of mountain scenery as a backdrop for the Indian Village which will be constructed for the Queen's visit.

Association spokesman Ted Barsby said the job would be "impossible."

His Charities Uncounted, Unsung

By MONTE ROBERTS
Emil "Dutchy" Reid, the patriarch of Esquimalt, died suddenly in the Royal Jubilee Hospital late Saturday afternoon. In his 84th year, he had undergone a successful hernia operation three weeks ago, and doctors believed him well on the way to complete recovery. He collapsed and died while eating supper.

Dutchy Reid was one of the best known and best liked citizens of Esquimalt. Open-hearted and open-handed, the Dutchman's charities were uncounted and unsung, for most of them were carried out in deepest secret.

If all those who owed Dutch a little something turn up at Sands Mortuary at 3 p.m. Wednesday, it will be one of the biggest funerals in Victoria's history.

GERMAN-BORN

Emil Reid was born in Bremen, Germany, Feb. 4, 1876. He was one of a large family, but none of them are believed to be now living.

At an early age, Emil shipped to sea before the mast in tramp schooners. As he used to describe them, those were the "biscuit and boll weevil" days when two months or more at sea with steadily deteriorating food was a routine matter.

After one particularly long and unpleasant voyage, Dutch's ship put in to Chemainus to load lumber. While there, Dutch went ashore and wangled a meal from a logging camp cook.

'ASHORE FOR GOOD'

"That was the end of seafaring," Dutch used to say. "One taste of that logging camp bacon, and I was ashore for good."

That was in 1905, and for a dozen years Dutch worked in various logging camps.

In 1919, he switched from woods to city, and operated the Half Way House and other well-known pubs in the two-percent-beer days.

Early in the twenties, Dutch moved into a sprawling, roomy house at 832 Old Esquimalt Road, which was to be his home until the time of his death.

When the time came to retire, Dutch had built up a multitude of friends, and he was never lonely. The Old Esquimalt Road home, behind the 14-foot evergreen hedge, was a favorite meeting place for these friends.

FAVORITE ROOM

And the favorite room in the house was the kitchen with its shiny brass and black stove and constantly hissing kettle.

Many were the fierce and outspoken cribbage games played at the end of the oilcloth-covered table, at which Dutch was more often the good natured referee than the acrimonious player.

It was at one of these kitchen crib sessions that Dutch won front-page fame. Somebody produced an Irish sweepstakes book with one ticket left; Dutch and three old friends who were in the crib game split the ticket four ways.

When a horse named Hard Ridden charged home first in the Epsom Derby of 1958, he brought $135,000 to Dutch and his three friends—whose nom de plume was "Kitchen Club".

HE APPROVED

And this kitchen club of Dutch's, while not exactly active exclusive, was not the type of club you could bribe your way into.

Permission to sit in Dutch's kitchen meant Dutch approved of you.

That so many people justifiably treasured Dutch's approval and friendship is all the epitaph he needs.

Sailor Admits City Burglary Early Sunday

Naval seaman Robert Arnold Enright, HMCS Terra Nova, pleaded guilty in city police court today to burglary and theft in one of five break-ins reported in Victoria and Oak Bay at the weekend.

Cons. John Adams arrested Enright at 1:30 a.m. Sunday near B-A Service, 503 Johnson, which had been entered by breaking a rear window and forcing a door. Four keys missing from the station were found on the accused.

Magistrate William Ostrler remanded Enright to Friday for probation report and sentence.

Nearly 100 delegates and their wives were welcomed to the city by Ald. Austin Curtis representing Mayor Percy Scowell.

They were entertained at a dinner dance at the Chez Marcel Friday night by the Majestic Council of Victoria of which Peter Gardner is regent. The Royal Arcanum was founded 88 years ago and claims to be the oldest fraternal benefit society in North America.

Four Firms Bid For Oil Pipeline

A battery of lawyers representing four pipeline companies opened argument at the Legislative Buildings today to decide who will build an oil pipeline from the rich wells of the Northern Peace River area.

The hearing is being conducted before a board headed by R. A. Swanson, and including John Meredith and A. Lucie-Smith, appointed by Commercial Transport Minister Lyle Wicks.

Submitting applications were Pacific Petroleum Ltd., Gibson Associated Oils Ltd., Trans-Prairie Pipelines Ltd. and Peace River Oil Pipeline (B.C.) Ltd.

The four firms are competing for a permit to build a common carrier line which would connect wells in the Miligan Creek-Boundary Lake area, northeast of Fort St. John with refineries at Taylor Flats, or the Trans-Mountain Oil Pipeline between Alberta and Vancouver, or the rail-head of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway at Fort St. John or Dawson Creek. At present time the wells are shipping oil southward by truck.

The company winning the right to construct the pipeline would be in advantageous position for future expansion—especially if a pipeline should be required to reach from the Peace to the Lower Mainland.

First heard today was Gibson Petroleum, represented by William H. Green, president of the firm. The firm is based in Calgary and has British backing.

'Bulls Eye' Shot Killed Firemen

Murder Hearing Starts in City

City fire department lieutenant James Clifford Luske, 35, died with "an almost perfect bull's eye" through his heart, medical evidence disclosed today at start of preliminary hearing of 17-year-old Victoria High School student, William Webber, charged with murder.

"It couldn't have taken a more level course," Dr. E. L. McNiven told the court.

He was the first medical man to view the body at 1417 Camosun on May 23 at about 3:50 p.m.

Dr. Ross McNeely, pathologist who performed the autopsy May 25, said death was caused by the gunshot wound which tore off the wall of the heart's right ventricle.

FLOODED WITH BLOOD

Three pints of blood were found in the chest cavity, he said.

The bullet entered between the fourth and fifth ribs and emerged between the 10th and 11th ribs, without touching any bone, he testified.

In examination of the brain of the dead man, Dr. McNeely said he found 14 areas measuring about one-eighth inch in diameter and which were "cystic," that is, suggesting Luske had suffered a series of small strokes.

There were also two tumors in the brain, measuring three-eighths and five-eighths of an inch each.

He said both conditions could cause personality changes in the victim, and possible severe headaches.

There was evidence also, he said, of slight hardening of the arteries, but otherwise Luske had been in good health.

Defence counsel Gerald Lauder asked if the strokes and tumors could have resulted in Luske "suddenly losing his temper."

"Such changes do occur in certain people," the doctor replied.

TOOK NOTES

Dr. McNiven testified he did not touch the body but took notes at the time. The victim was lying on his left side on the bedroom floor, and there was a spent 22 calibre cartridge nearby.

The door to the bedroom had been forced, splintered around the lock, he said.

He then went to the kitchen and found the accused youth and his mother, Mrs. Olive Webber, sitting at the kitchen table.

"I noticed blood on the hands of the boy," he said.

He then asked the accused if he had been drinking. The answer was "no." There was no smell of alcohol on his breath.

Mrs. Webber was crying, and alcohol on her breath was "strong ... her pupils were dilated ... face flushed."

DRINKING ALL DAY

"Mrs. Webber told me she had been drinking all day with Jim Luske," the doctor said.

Both medical men testified the victim could have died "within seconds" or up to three minutes after the shooting.

The hearing before Magistrate William Ostrler was continuing, with the bulk of evidence yet to be heard.

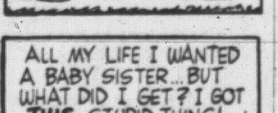

The spectacled round-faced accused glanced briefly at numerous spectators on entering the prisoner's dock, then listened impassively to testimony.

A. H. ELKINGTON ... fell 63 feet

Man Dies 11 Days After Fall

A 28-year-old construction worker, Alfred Howard Elkington, who wavered in a partial coma 11 days after a 63-foot fall at HMC Dockyard, died in hospital late Saturday.

Esquimalt police said deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore would announce an inquest, possibly for Wednesday.

A resident of Victoria three years, he had been employed the last month with Commonwealth Construction Co. He was working on a scaffold cleaning paint from windows at the recently-completed naval ordnance depot when he apparently lost his footing and fell to a concrete floor.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with multiple injuries and had been in "very poor" condition before his death about 11 p.m.

A service will be held at Hayward's funeral chapel at a time to be announced.

BODY GOING HOME

The body will be sent to Oak Lake, Man., near Brandon, the home of the dead man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thomas Elkington, for funeral service at St. David's United Church and burial at Westlawn Memorial Gardens, Oak Lake.

Elkington, who was born in Whitewood, Sask., lived with his sister Lucy and brother-in-law Constant Proulx, 438 Dallas. An aunt, Mabel Elkington, also lives in Victoria.

Others surviving are a brother Everett, who came to Victoria after the accident, and two other sisters, Mabel Sawyer, Longbank, Sask., and Joyce Davies, Flin Flon, Man.

Woman 'Poor' After Clothes Catch Fire

Mrs. Jeanie Tyre, 74, of 3011 Quadra, was in "very poor" condition at noon today suffering 70 per cent burns received when her clothing caught fire at home Saturday.

City police, who took the woman to St. Joseph's Hospital, said her clothes were burned off by flames from a potholder set ablaze when she took a kettle from a gas stove.

Both clothing and a blanket in which Mrs. Tyre wrapped herself were burning when neighbor Mrs. Kathleen Gaiger and her son-in-law Pat Burke, of 3015 Quadra, rushed over in answer to Mrs. Tyre's cries for help.

ROUGH 'N' TOUGH COWBOYS USE FOAM RUBBER SADDLES

Old 'Tall in the Saddle' Likes To Have Things Soft in the Seat

By DAVID COWLISHAW
Millions of small boys are going to gasp with dismay when they know, but the sad truth is out—red-blooded American cowboys won't mount a horse unless there's a foam rubber seat on it. Actually the word is "saddle," of course, and the one the cowboys bounce up and down on will be on display for all to see at the Monterey Restaurant—Wednesday and Thursday.

It's part of a saddlery show, put on by city dealer Bob Shanks and running the gamut from the teeny-weeny five-pound jobs that cost $36 to the 45-pound whoppers you can get for $450.

"We want to show how saddles have changed," said Mr. Shanks. "There are so many styles now. And we'd like to give a bit of advice, too."

The advice is for fathers of little girls with ponies. Don't buy just any old saddle, says Bob. Make certain it fits the rider, as well as the pony, and always get a good quality model.

"England still makes the best general-style saddle," he said. "Something to do with the workmanship—the treating and tanning of the leather, you know."

SURPRISES

Saddles come in all sizes, styles and surprises. The surprises—the foam rubber for the big, tough cowboy is one of them—include some of the fancy silverwork on the large western type and the news that saddles can actually break in half if the horse falls hard enough.

"Also, it might be of interest to know that a horse seldom knows what kind of a saddle has been thrown on him. But he'll soon know what type of rider's up."

To hear Bob Shanks talk, there are as many categories of rider as there are of saddle. He says the Italians are "the tops in cross-country riding," with the Germans next, then the Americans.

WORST OF ALL

"Canadians are quite good, too—watch 'em go in the next Olympics—but the English are worst of all."

"They make the best saddles and they breed superior horseflesh but when it comes to riding—well, you know, they still think it's just a game."

Saddled with two horses of his own, lean and leathery Bob will also trot out whips, riding crops (there's a difference), cinches (or girths), horseshoes and glycerine-based saddle soap at the show.

"We want the people to understand there's more to riding a horse than just getting on," he said. "Learners should never ride for more than a few minutes at a time, for instance, and no rider should wear anything but seamless clothing."

LITTLE 'CISIFIED'

Over the years, saddles have not altered much, except they have become perhaps just a little "cissified."

Reid used to make their saddles out of buffalo skin. Now you can get them in all sorts of treated cowhide, with pigskin making the most luxurious saddle.

But no matter whether it comes from pig or cow, a saddle, says Bob, is a "must" for any rider.

"Nobody should ride bareback. It's too dangerous. You can come off too easily and hurt yourself that way. Not good for the horse, either."

The show, from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. both days, is free. Bring your own horses.

The bullet entered between the fourth and fifth ribs and emerged between the 10th and 11th ribs, without touching any bone, he testified.

In examination of the brain of the dead man, Dr. McNeely said he found 14 areas measuring about one-eighth inch in diameter and which were "cystic," that is, suggesting Lusse had suffered a series of small strokes.

There were also two tumors in the brain, measuring three-eighths and five-eighths of an inch each.

He said both conditions could cause personality changes in the victim, and possible severe headaches.

There was evidence also, he said, of slight hardening of the arteries, but otherwise Lusse had been in good health.

Defence counsel Gerald Lauder asked if the strokes and tumors could have resulted in Lusse "suddenly losing his temper."

"Such changes do occur in certain people," the doctor replied.

TOOK NOTES

Dr. McNiven testified he did not touch the body but took notes at the time. The victim was lying on his left side on the bedroom floor, and there was a spent .22 calibre cartridge nearby.

The door to the bedroom had been forced, splintered around the lock, he said.

He then went to the kitchen and found the accused youth and his mother, Mrs. Olive Webber, sitting at the kitchen table.

"I noticed blood on the hands of the boy," he said.

He then asked the accused if he had been drinking. The answer was "no." There was no smell of alcohol on his breath.

Mrs. Webber was crying, and alcohol on her breath was "strong . . . her pupils were dilated . . . face flushed."

DRINKING ALL DAY

"Mrs. Webber told me she had been drinking all day with Jim Lusse," the doctor said.

Both medical men testified the victim could have died "within seconds" or up to three minutes after the shooting.

The hearing before Magistrate William Ostler was continuing, with the bulk of evidence yet to be heard.

The spectacular round-faced accused glanced briefly at numerous spectators on entering the prisoner's dock, then listened impassively to testimony.

A. H. ELKINGTON ... fell 63 feet

Man Dies 11 Days After Fall

A 28-year-old construction worker, Alfred Howard "Elkington," who wavered in a partial coma 11 days after a 63-foot fall at HMC Dockyard, died in hospital late Saturday.

Esquimalt police said deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore would announce an inquest, possibly for Wednesday.

A resident of Victoria three years, he had been employed the last month with Commonwealth Construction Co. He was working on a scaffold cleaning paint from windows at the recently-completed naval ordnance depot when he apparently lost his footing and fell to a concrete floor.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with multiple injuries and had been in "very poor" condition before his death about 11 p.m.

A service will be held at Hayward's funeral chapel at a time to be announced.

BODY GOING HOME

The body will be sent to Oak Lake, Man., near Brandon, the home of the dead man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thomas Elkington, for funeral service at St. David's United Church and burial at Westlawn Memorial Gardens, Oak Lake.

Elkington, who was born in Whitewood, Sask., lived with his sister Lucy and brother-in-law Constant Praud, 438 Dallas. An aunt Mabel Elkington, also lives in Victoria.

Others surviving are a brother Everett, who came to Victoria after the accident, and two other sisters, Mabel Sawyer, Longbank, Sask., and Joyce Davies, Flin Flon, Man.

Woman 'Poor' After Clothes Catch Fire

Mrs. Jeanie Tyre, 74, of 3011 Quadra, was in "very poor" condition at noon today suffering 70 per cent burns received when her clothing caught fire at home Saturday.

City police, who took the woman to St. Joseph's Hospital, said her clothes were burned off by flames from a potherider set ablaze when she took a kettle from a gas stove.

Both clothing and a blanket in which, Mrs. Tyre wrapped herself were burning when neighbor Mrs. Kathleen Gaiger and her son-in-law Pat Burke, of 3015 Quadra, rushed over in answer to Mrs. Tyre's cries for help.

YOU WON'T SEE THE GIRL PROBABLY, but this $265 Simco-roping saddle that was exhibited at Brussels World Fair is just one of a myriad types of "horse seat" to be shown at

Bob Shanks' saddlery show in town this week. Sheila Ball, wife of a local horse-shoer, holds the kind of saddle used by jockeys at Sandown. (Times Photo by Strickland.)

ROUGH 'N' TOUGH COWBOYS USE FOAM RUBBER SADDLES

Old 'Tall in the Saddle' Likes To Have Things Soft in the Seat

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Millions of small boys are going to gasp with dismay when they know, but the sad truth is out—red-blooded American cowboys won't mount a horse unless there's a foam rubber seat on it. Actually the word is "saddle," of course, and the one the cowboys bounce up and down on will be on display for all to see at the Monterey Restaurant Wednesday and Thursday.

It's part of a saddlery show, put on by city dealer Bob Shanks and running the gamut from the teeny-weeny five-pound jobs that cost $36 to the 45-pound whoppers you can get for $450.

"We want to show how saddles have changed," said Mr. Shanks. "There are so many styles now. And we'd like to give a bit of advice, too."

The advice is for fathers of little girls with ponies. Don't buy just any old saddle, says Bob. Make certain it fits the rider, as well as the pony, and always get a good quality model.

"England still makes the best general-style saddle," he said. "Something to do with the workmanship—the treating and tanning of the leather, you know."

SURPRISES

Saddles come in all sizes, styles and surprises. The surprises—the foam rubber for the big, tough cowboy is one of them—include some of the fancy silverwork on the large western type and the news that saddles can actually break in half if the horse falls hard enough.

"Also, it might be of interest to know that a horse seldom knows what kind of a saddle has been thrown on him. But he'll soon know what type of rider's up."

To hear Bob Shanks talk there are as many categories of rider as there are of saddle. He says the Italians are "the tops in cross-country riding," with the Germans next, then the Americans.

WORST OF ALL

"Canadians are quite good, too—watch 'em go in the next Olympics—but the English are worst of all."

"They make the best saddles and they breed superior horseflesh but when it comes to riding—well, you know, they still think it's just a game."

Saddled with two horses of his own, lean and leathery Bob will also trot out whips, riding crops (there's a difference), cinches (or girths), horseshoes and glycerine-based saddle soap at the show.

"We want the people to understand there's more to riding a horse than just getting on," he said. "Learners should never ride for more than a few minutes at a time, for instance, and no rider should wear anything but seamless clothing."

LITTLE 'CISSIFIED'

Over the years, saddles have not altered much, except they have become perhaps just a little "ciissified."

The Indians used to make their saddles out of buffalo skin. Now you can get them in all sorts of treated cowhide, with pigskin making the most luxurious saddle.

But no matter whether it comes from pig or cow, a saddle, says Bob, is a "must" for any rider.

"Nobody should ride bareback. It's too dangerous. You can come off too easily and hurt yourself that way. Not good for the horse, either."

The show, from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. both days, is free. Bring your own horses.

On Etiquette

Limited Wedding Invitations. When my cousin was married, my husband and I were invited to the wedding and reception, but not our children. I feel that they were wrong. Will you also tell me, please, if it is correct to invite people to the church and not to the reception?

Louise Davis Answers:

The bride and her parents have the right to limit their guest list by excluding children, and it is regretful when any of the parents take exception. Oftentimes children are invited to the ceremony, but, for various reasons, only adults are asked to the reception. These decisions should be accepted without question or hard feelings. Unfortunately, some thoughtless parents will bring their children anyway, thus causing problems, some of them serious. This may not have happened in your cousin's case. Nevertheless, she was within her rights to exclude them. A reception is an "after wedding" party and hosts and hostesses plan it according to their own views of hospitality. Inviting people to the church and not to the reception is permissible and happens frequently. It is often a case of space and expense. Sometimes it is a special desire of the bride to have a very small group at the reception. Tastes, ideas and ideals vary. Each one to his own for reasons of his own. Respecting them is an admirable attribute of character.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If You Suffer Menstrual Pains, Exercise May Help

The menstrual periods are a natural physiological experience and are taken pretty casually by women. However, one in every three women has some pain, and a few women are truly miserable. The great majority go about their work and living with little discomfort.

Some women find that former discomfort disappears after having a child. Painful menstruation may be due to a misplaced uterus or inflammation in the tubes or ovaries. Extreme nervousness or just generally poor condition seem to play some part. Too little exercise may cause congestion in the pelvis. Constipation can cause this.

Often exercise relieves the congestion which causes pain. Walking may be indicated. The following exercise has been used with great benefit by many women. Lie on the floor on your back. Bend both knees and place your feet flat on the floor. Push your abdomen up toward the ceiling. Pull the abdominal muscles down toward your back as far as you can. Do not lift the hips from the floor. This exercise is done entirely by the abdominal muscles. It should be done slowly.

If you have discomfort or pain at the time of your periods, you should have a check-up by your physician. Often conditions which cause this can be remedied. Then build up your general health.

Hot foot baths are sometimes helpful as are hot pads and water bottles on the abdomen or back. Some women find that the habit of taking a mild laxative for a week preceding the menses is an aid. Others find that the exercise I have described today, if done daily just before and during the first part of the periods, overcomes much of their difficulty.

Sometimes the simple expedient of leading a healthier life is all that is necessary to relieve menstrual pain. Don't expect troubles at this time but if you have it, do not take it for granted as one of the penalties of being a woman. Do something about it!

IT'S A NEW WAY TO 'STEP OUT'

Ever thought how tricky it is to make a dignified descent from a stage coach? Maybe it is easy enough for the tough hoppers in a popular western but not for a pretty Princess in high-heeled shoes. And when Princess Margaret arrived at Aldershot Military Show arena recently, she found that gallant soldiers had provided her with a new way of stepping out. The Princess, who rode into the arena at the side of the coach driver, made a happy—and dignified—landing down specially built steps. (Mirror Photo.)

WASAGAMING, Man. (CP)—The National Council of Women of Canada will study the possibility of a higher achievement standard in governmental training of future applicants for Canadian citizenship.

The standard, based on training in language and citizenship, would be used for the guidance of the courts in examining applicants.

The request for this study was contained in one of seven resolutions passed here Saturday during the annual meeting of the council. About 125 delegates are attending.

Three resolutions backing the study of art in Canadian schools were carried. They called for the appointment of art supervisors—or resource teachers to local school boards and a provincial director of art education to co-ordinate the art education program within each province, and the inclusion of art lessons in regular school broadcast schedules.

The British Columbia council initiated a request passed by the national council that urged governmental control of the sale of carbon tetrachloride with labels warning of its poisonous nature.

Her sister's tiara and veil were worn by Norma Anne Wood for "something old" at her wedding Saturday evening to Robert William Hunter. Couple were married in St. Mark's Anglican Church by Canon R. Willis.

A gown of taffeta and lace with bodice touched with sequins, pearls and styled with hilly point sleeves, was worn by the bride. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

DEAR ABBY . . .

WAS It Three Months?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Does a sixth grade teacher in a country school have the right to take a student home with her and have her gardener give him a bath? This is what happened to my son!

He said his ankles were a little dirty and when his teacher asked him when he had a bath last he told her it had been three months. Now you know as well as I do that kids eleven years old can't keep track of time.

I just want to know what my rights are as there is going to be plenty of trouble in the principal's office tomorrow morning.

BURNED UP
DEAR BURNED: Your "rights" can be clearly defined if you want to make a court case out of it. If the boy said he hadn't had a bath in three months and the teacher could believe it, perhaps you should thank her and the gardener for having performed a vital service.

DEAR ABBY: I am going steady with a wonderful guy and we love each other terribly. Our problem is we love each other so much we can hardly control ourselves. We haven't gone all the way yet but I am afraid we will. We are trying very hard to be good. We have even prayed. We can't afford to get into trouble because we can't afford to get married. What can we do?

TWO IN LOVE
DEAR TWO: Young people "in love" are playing with dynamite when they "pet" for hours in parked cars or dark corners, or any place that offers them opportunities to go "a. t. w." Double-date, stick with the crowd, and lead yourselves away from temptation.

DEAR ABBY: Seven years ago I married a girl with a one-year-old son. She told me her husband was a no-good drunkard and she divorced him before their baby was born. I adopted her son.

I found out recently that she was never married. She promised me when I married her that we would have children of our own, but now she refuses. I have begged and pleaded but she says that one is enough and she is too old now. (She is 26.) Should I go on working for a woman who cares only for the security of herself and another man's child?

HOOKED
DEAR HOOKED: If what you said is true, this woman married you under a false pretense. Talk to your clergyman or a lawyer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO NELL: When your old man starts feeling his corns instead of his oats—he's over the hill.

"Why don't my parents trust me?" For What Every Teen-ager Wants to Know, send 25c and a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Major and Mrs. George E. Pethard of 469 Oliver Street, announce the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Violet Verity, to Ronald Alister Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Shaw, 1912 Oak Bay Avenue. Wedding will take place Thursday, July 9 at 7:30 p.m. in Oak Bay United Church. Rev. A. Calder will officiate. (Photo of Mr. Shaw by Jus-Rite, of Miss Pethard by Paul Jancas.)

TODAY'S RECIPE

PEACH ANGEL PARFAIT

Two-thirds cup sugar, 1/3 cup water, 2 egg whites, few grains salt, 5 to 6 canned peach halves, 1/2 cup whipping cream and 1 1/2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice.

Combine sugar and water and heat, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Boil until syrup spins a thread. Beat egg whites with salt until stiff. Pour syrup slowly over egg whites, beating continuously. Continue beating until cool. Mash well-drained peaches to make 1 cup pulp. Whip cream until stiff. Fold peach pulp, lemon juice and whipped cream into egg white mixture. Pour into refrigerator tray, place in freezing compartment with control set at lowest temperature, and freeze until firm without stirring. Reset temperature control to normal. Makes about 1 quart.

AUTOMATIC GAS HEAT IS YOUR BEST FURNACE BUY

WHY

Because the domestic gas rate for heavy-use customers has been reduced

ECONOMY with GAS

You pay only for the gas you use—after you use it. Installation costs are lower, and a gas furnace has a long life. You don't pay for storage bins or tanks, or tie up money in idle fuel.

AUTOMATIC heat with GAS

With an automatic-controlled thermostat the heat turns itself down at night, at whatever hour you wish. Then, at the time you want in the morning, the furnace starts warming your home before you get up.

CONVENIENCE with GAS

No furnace to tend morning and night, no ashes to haul, no delivery problem. You never have to think about calling and ordering more fuel—never have to worry that your supply of gas might run out.

FASTER heat with GAS

A flick of the finger—and gas responds instantly! Gas is ready to burn the instant it reaches your furnace. You get heat the moment you want it!

DEPENDABILITY with GAS

Regardless of the weather, your gas supply is steady, dependable. There are no bad weather delivery delays. Cold snaps don't catch you unprepared. Gas is right there, every day, every time you need it.

QUIET, CLEAN heat with GAS

Automatic gas is exceptionally quiet. Important where the heating unit is on the same floor as your living quarters. And your home stays cleaner, has less dust and grime, requires less decorating.

Doukhobor Buys His Land

TRAIL (CP)—A 50-year-old Orthodox Doukhobor has become the first member of his sect to buy from the British Columbia government the land on which he has been living for the last 49 years.

Bill Masloff of nearby Oostishnia has bought his home and 30 acres of land under terms of the Lord royal commission recommendations. Electricity now goes into the Masloff home, a survey has been completed and stakes are in place, and full title to the land is expected shortly. The property purchase is part of community-owned lands taken over by the B.C. government years ago when insurance companies holding mortgages threatened foreclosure. The Government's action was intended to prevent wholesale evictions, but has resulted in endless disputes and a series of royal commissions.

The government published its offer to sell the holdings at a nominal price of $250 in 1957 but the decision by Masloff was the first purchase.

"The trouble is," Mr. Masloff said, "that people just don't believe that they can buy their land."

"They have been led to believe that no one must touch the community lands."

"ADULTS ONLY" was critic's recommendation of paintings exhibited in London by Montreal artist Dr. Walt Ruhlman. Elements of "grotesque humor, sex, religiosity" should restrict show to adult audiences only, said British critic.

MINER'S FAMILY LEAVING 'COLD' PRAIRIE

There's No Home But Springhill

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Ken Smith, a coal miner who moved to Brandon after the mine disaster at Springhill last October, is taking his family back home to the Nova Scotia town.

The 34-year-old miner brought his wife and 13-year-old son here seven months ago. They became Brandon's adopted family after an underground upheaval in the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company's No. 2 colliery at Springhill, claimed 75 lives Oct. 23. Now they have decided to go back. They leave June 30.

Mr. Smith said Saturday their reason is simple: "Springhill is home." Once they get back, he said, they never want to move again.

Mr. Smith has not lined up a job in the Nova Scotia community, where the employment and general economic picture has not been bright since the Dominion Steel and Coal Company, the Cumberland company's parent firm, closed the mine following the disaster. He would never return to mining, the work he had done for 15 years. "I've had enough of that," he said.

His wife, Renovia; her son, David, is homesick and wants to see his school chums again. Mrs. Smith said the family found the severe Manitoba winter too harsh. They missed the sea and the rolling countryside of Nova Scotia.

And they missed the close-knit society of Springhill.

"It's a place you can come to, see a light in a window, walk in and have coffee," she said.

Ambassador Vanishes Off Boat to Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—The foreign ministry and the police said Sunday they are still baffled about the disappearance of the Uruguayan ambassador to Argentina, Mateo Marquez Castro, during an overnight boat trip from Buenos Aires.

Marquez Castro was said to have left Buenos Aires on a regular passenger boat Friday night. When the ship arrived here Saturday morning, he was not on board.

The bed in his cabin had not been slept in, the ship's officers said.

In Buenos Aires, the ambassador's wife and daughter said they had had no news from him.

Mrs. Marquez Castro told reporters in the Argentine capital, however, that her husband had received a letter May 16 threatening him and his family with death.

She said the undersigned letter also warned that Admiral Isaac Rojas, former Argentine vice-president, would be killed.

Youth Placed On Probation For Burglary

Sentence was suspended and a year's probation imposed on Howard Winsor, 18, New England Hotel, when he appeared in city police court Saturday on a charge of breaking, entering and theft of about $400 worth of goods May 15.

Winsor pleaded guilty to breaking into Dickinson and Dunn Ltd., 1630 Blanshard, where he took two radios, a camera and light meter and electric toaster.

Magistrate William Ostler said Winsor would be put on $500 bond for good behavior and when able he must repay the value of one radio, the camera and meter, worth a total of $356, which Winsor said he sold to a stranger and were not recovered by police.

Magistrate Ostler noted from a pre-sentence report that Winsor's record was poor. "You have been drifting around and carrying on... frequenting pool halls..."

"You must make an effort to get a steady job and stick with it," the magistrate said.

Jail Term Halved For U.K. Widow

LONDON (Reuters)—An appeal court Friday halved a two-month sentence imposed on a 39-year-old, widowed mother of four children for failing to report part-time earnings to the national assistance board.

The original sentence on Mrs. Effinia Christos stirred widespread disapproval throughout Britain. She was using money she earned as a seamstress to buy special food and clothing for three of her four children who had tuberculosis.

It was stated in court that she earned £2 or £3 ($5.60 or $8.40) a week for sewing in addition to the £5 ($14) a week she received in national assistance.

Geoffrey Rose, the magistrate who imposed the sentence, died on June 1, at about the time it was announced that

Oakes Murder Prober Shot Up

The lights were out and nobody was in that section of the building.

Cyril Stevenson, publisher of the weekly Nassau Herald, recently told the lower House of the Bahamas Assembly he could name the murderer.

UNSOLD HOMES

Like everything else, homes are sold according to the law of supply and demand, which is a stern, inexorable and ever-changing demand for a price the seller wants.

The pricing of Real Estate is probably the most important factor in an Agent's relation with buyer and seller. Selling homes is hard work, make no mistake about that. Statistics prove that it takes an average of 90 days to find a buyer for the home that is priced right on the market. During that time the Agent has to spend his time, money and effort in an endeavor to find a purchaser. There are never more than a few buyers for a particular house at any one time, and those buyers have many homes to choose from with a variety of prices and terms. They are obviously going to choose the best available for their dollar.

Overpricing in the first instance means that you lose a number of possible buyers. The Agent by proper and careful presentation can help a lot, but he is in direct competition with the market and cannot beat it. No one can. Many times recently we have had definite complaints from would-be sellers that their homes have not sold because they were advised to ask too much in the first instance. We are asked if we can help. Of course we can if the owner will face facts. Right now the market is full of overpriced homes but only those priced right are selling. By that I mean homes priced fairly in view of the cost of reproduction, plus land value, less the proper allowances for obsolescence, depreciation and financing. We can always sell properly priced homes so if you really want to sell give us a ring.

ARMED MOTORIST

VANCOUVER — Police said they found a loaded and cocked 25 calibre automatic concealed in the underwear of a motorist they arrested Sunday after his car sideswiped two parked vehicles. They said the man kicked one of the arresting officers in the stomach at the accident scene. The man was charged with impaired driving, assaulting an officer, having a concealed weapon and illegal possession of a firearm.

Sea Rescue Groups Call Conference

VANCOUVER (CP)—A special meeting of representatives of volunteer groups in British Columbia's search and rescue organization has been called for Tuesday in Vancouver.

The meeting follows reports of dissatisfaction among members of the group over the present system of marine rescue.

Representatives of Towboat and Fishing Vessel Owners Associations — whose crews make up the backbone of private rescue operations — amateur radio operators, owners of private rescue vessels and others have been asked to attend.

The present system is in control of the RCAF. Spokesmen for some volunteer groups say RCAF officers are not trained and lack sufficient knowledge of local geography and conditions to direct marine rescue operations efficiently.

The meeting Tuesday is expected to discuss reports, unconfirmed officially, that the federal government is considering appointment of a full-time co-ordinator of rescue services, with authority to order all government ships and planes into emergency action.

FIRE HITS HOTEL

VANCOUVER — Fifty residents were evacuated in their nightclothes from the Stanley Hotel early Sunday when fire broke out in the grill on the ground floor. Forty firemen succeeded in preventing the flames from spreading to the hotel. Damage was not extensive in the restaurant.

BETWEEN PROTESTANTS, CATHOLICS Gulf Narrowed, Says Bishop

The gulf between Protestantism and Roman Catholicism has been narrowed in recent years, says the Bishop of Chelmsford, Rt. Rev. Sherard F. Allison, now visiting Victoria.

"I hope to see a day when Protestants and Catholics will worship together under one roof," he said. "But it will take a long, long time to achieve a reconciliation between the two."

The bishop will develop this theme in his address to a public meeting in Christ Church Memorial Hall tonight at 8.

He expressed similar views as chairman of a special committee on Christian unity at the Lambeth Conference in London last fall.

MOST AGREED

"At that conference," the bishop said, "most clergy were agreed that we should work towards the ultimate ideal of bringing Protestants and Catholics together in a united church."

As head of one of the largest dioceses in Britain, with a population of more than 2,000,000 people, the Bishop of Chelmsford is here as guest of Archbishop Harold Sexton of British Columbia.

He declined comment on a suggestion that he might become the next Archbishop of Canterbury. But he is generally regarded as one of the top men in the Church of England today.

The bishop preached at Christ Church Cathedral Sunday morning and at St. John's Anglican Church Sunday evening.

OCEAN LAYER WORKED HERE

Ss. Ocean Layer, well known for its history-making laying of 132,000-volt cables across Georgia Strait for B.C. Electric in 1956, today was reported "burning badly" off north-west coast of France. All crew members were reported safe. Cables laid by ship between Galiano Island and Tsawwassen Beach were longest of their voltage in world.

THOSE FLYING SAUCERS BUZZED ANCIENT ROME

ROME (AP) — Even the ancient Romans of 2,000 years ago saw flying saucers. But they likened them to flying shields.

This is probably the meaning of a passage in a work by Julius Obsequens, a fourth-century Latin poet, says Knobby Rallsback, a classics scholar from Moline, Ill., who is studying in Rome.

He says he came across this sentence in one of Obsequens' writings referring to a phenomenon reported to have been observed near Rome in 100 B.C.:

"At sunset a circular object like a shield was seen to sweep across the sky from west to east."

2 Canadian Sailors Hurt In Portland

PORTLAND (AP) — Two Canadian sailors were injured in separate traffic mishaps today, shortly before their ships were scheduled to leave.

Dave Kinash, 20, of the destroyer Assiniboine suffered scalp cuts and a head injury when struck by a Rose City Transit Company bus. At Veterans' Hospital, his condition was reported to be satisfactory but he was to be held for about two days for observation.

Thomas James Allison of the destroyer escort Margaree was struck by a truck and was taken to hospital with leg injuries.

Six Canadian Navy ships have been tied up at the seaway for participation in last week's Rose Festival. An estimated 30,000 visitors went aboard the Canadian ships in the four days they were open to visitors.

45% OF CANCER-FEARING CITY DOCTORS DON'T SMOKE

'Do as I Say AND Do as I Do'

Fear by many Victoria doctors of lung cancer as a result of smoking was pointed up today in a dramatic speech by Dr. Henry Edmondson, 52-year-old radiologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Speaking to the Gyro Club, he reported that 45 of 100 city doctors do not smoke, many for fear of lung cancer, while others have either reduced their cigarette consumption or switched to pipes because of the possibility of contracting the disease.

"Lung cancer in North America now accounts for nearly one-fourth of all cancer deaths in men," he said.

"Death from lung cancer is ten times as great among cigarette smokers as among non-smokers, 20 to 30 times as high for those who smoke between one and two packages a day, 40 to 60 times as high for those who smoke more than two packages a day."

Stressing that he was neither a "crusader nor a reformer," Dr. Edmondson, himself a non-smoker, drew significance from the fact that mice coated with tobacco tars usually produced a number of malignant tumors.

"One must accept the probability that cigarette smoke in sufficient quantity is at least one factor in the increased incidence of lung cancer," the radiologist went on.

"Filters do trap a fraction of the tar and nicotine but there has never been any reliable evidence to indicate they actually protect smokers from the risk of cancer."

Dr. Edmondson scored cigarette advertising which persuaded people the risk of cancer from

Canada Stays With Bomarc

OTTAWA (CP) — Proposed changes in United States air defence plans do not affect Canada's plans to install two American Bomarc anti-aircraft missile bases in this country, Defence Minister Pearkes said today in the Commons.

At the same time, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley confirmed that the government will buy 10 Albatross planes from Grumman Engineering Corporation of the United States for RCAF search and rescue. He did not give the cost but it is estimated at $14,000,000.

BIG 3 AGREE ON NUCLEAR BLAST STUDY

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union agreed today to a three-power scientific study of the problem of detecting high altitude nuclear explosions.

A communique issued after a 50-minute meeting of the nuclear test suspension conference said American, British and Soviet scientists will meet in Geneva June 22 to go into this problem, and report back to the conference by June 29.

The high-altitude study was proposed a week ago by Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, head of the American delegation.

Russia May Meet U.S. Alone

GENEVA (CP) — The Big Four foreign ministers tonight held a "crisis" private session amid reports Russia may seek direct bilateral negotiations with the United States.

As the deadlocked conference entered its sixth week, a Communist informant said Russia is considering seeking talks on Berlin with the U.S. alone if there are no concrete results here.

The informant said such talks could be held when deputy premier Frol Kozlov visits the U.S. at the end of this week providing a summit conference would follow.

Meantime, Britain made an 11th-hour attempt to keep the Geneva conference alive.

Today's private Big Four session was postponed two hours as Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told the American and French foreign ministers about his hopes for agreement.

Lloyd flew in from London at the start of the sixth—and probably final — week of the so-far abortive conference.

The big question is whether the conference on Germany's future will end in stalemate or agree at least on a summit meeting.

Lloyd attended a cabinet session in London this morning and later told reporters he still is hoping for an East-West agreement. He said, "I will try to play my part in seeking to achieve it."

U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter conferred with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville at midday and they arranged to meet Lloyd immediately upon his return here for a strategy session aimed at maintaining the Western solid front in dealing with Russia.

U.S. officials said that if Gromyko came up with no new ideas today the Western powers would expect the talks to go on for probably two more meetings in a search for an agreeable formula for breaking off negotiations.

Saanich Boy Burns Fatal

Body burns brought death today to 10-year-old immigrant boy Wolfgang Bradash, who lay critically ill for eight days after he was sprayed with flaming gasoline near his rural Saanich home.

With burns to nearly 80 per cent of his body, the boy rallied briefly in mid-week but was back on the critical list at St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday, bandaged from head to foot.

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said a formal inquest would be unlikely.

Police said Wolfgang was burned when he poured gasoline on a burning log from which the boy was making a dugout canoe.

'ROYAL INSULT' CLAIMS PAPER

LONDON (CP) — A London Sunday newspaper charges that there is a "disgraceful campaign" in Canada to wreck the forthcoming tour of the country on which the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh embark this week.

The story in the mass-circulation newspaper The People says "it is time the mother country learned just how far open hostility to the Royal Tour and even to the Queen herself has gone in one of her own dominions."

The Canadian "campaign of insult" report caused scant concern today in court circles. Officials said the article appeared merely to have dredged up all the adverse comment made in Canada about the tour over a considerable period of time.

A more positive reaction came in Canada from the chief information officer for the Royal Tour. "I personally haven't seen any kind of enthusiasm for the Royal Tour," R. C. MacInnes said in Saint John, N.B. "It seems the other way around."

A Vancouver newspaper, after an overseas telephone interview with Harry Ainsworth, editor-in-chief of The People, quotes him as saying he does not believe the overall attitude of Canadians toward the Queen is as bad as his paper made out.

The article appeared under the heading "The Queen—a disgraceful campaign to wreck her tour." The story itself, written by John Justice, acknowledged in the second paragraph that the attacks "have come from a minority in the Dominion."

'Unwanted Mother-in-Law Barging In'

The story says: "To anyone reading certain Canadian publications and the statements of a number of prominent Dominion personalities it seems brutally clear that there is something like a conspiracy to present the Queen as a sort of unwanted mother-in-law barging in on a long-suffering relative."

It adds that "the Canadian government itself and the Dominion's more responsible newspapers are opposed to these unseemly attacks on the tour."

Among the criticisms cited by the paper was a recent CBC panel program. MacInnes magazine is reported as saying "the belief that Canadians want glamour, excitement and mystery from the Royal Tour to relieve the tedium of their dull little lives is propaganda from an extinct era."

On the CBC program, the article said, Toronto writer June Callwood commented that "unlike her mother, the Queen isn't ready to meet the people — and won't be ready for years." Max Ferguson, better known as television commentator Rawhide, was quoted as having said royal tours amount to "mass commercialized hysteria."

"Some newspapers," says The People "keep publishing letters complaining that there is constant ramming of the royal family down Canadian throats to work up an enthusiasm that does not exist."

"With newspapers and magazines publishing sneers and complaints of this kind it is not surprising that the public reaction to the Queen's tour is in some places lukewarm."

Queen's Yacht Arrives for Tour

SYDNEY (CP) — One of the best-known ships in the world, the royal yacht Britannia, is an attraction for hundreds of sightseers at the nearby Point Edward naval base today.

The blue and white vessel docked here at 5:30 p.m., ADT, Sunday after a rough Atlantic crossing. Sightseeing boats, the RCMP cutter Burin and a fire boat from the United States naval base at Argentia, Nfld., escorted the yacht to her berth.

She will lead a flotilla of ships at the official opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. The yacht will remain here until Thursday to take on fuel and provisions before sailing to Sept. Isles, Que., where Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will go aboard.

TRIVANDRUM, India (CP) — Indian army units moved into the Communist-ruled state of Kerala today after a third day of violence claimed four more lives.

The four were killed when police twice opened fire today on demonstrators picketing a government-run school.

Twenty-one persons were injured when police fired on battling rival groups in a Trivandrum suburb.

Today's shooting brought the death toll to seven since the opposition parties in Kerala launched a "non-violent" campaign Friday to oust the state's Communist government. The Communists were elected 26 months ago.

His Charities Un counted, Unsung

By MONTE ROBERTS
Emil "Dutch" Reid, the patriarch of Esquimalt, died suddenly in the Royal Jubilee Hospital late Saturday afternoon. In his 84th year, he had undergone a successful hernia operation three weeks ago, and doctors believed him well on the way to complete recovery. He collapsed and died while eating supper.

Dutchy Reid was one of the best known and best liked citizens of Esquimalt. Open-hearted and open-handed, the Dutchman's charities were uncounted and unsung, for most of them were carried out in deepest secret.

If all those who owed Dutch a little something turn up at Sands Mortuary at 3 p.m. Wednesday, it will be one of the biggest funerals in Victoria's history.

GERMAN-BORN
Emil Reid was born in Bremen, Germany, Feb. 4, 1876. He was one of a large family, but none of them are believed to be now living.

At an early age, Emil shipped to sea before the mast in tramp schooners. As he used to describe them, those were the "biscuit and boll weevil" days, when two months or more at sea with steadily deteriorating food was a routine matter.

After one particularly long and unpleasant voyage, Dutch's ship put in to Chemainus to load lumber. While there, Dutch went ashore and wangled a meal from a logging camp cook.

'ASHORE FOR GOOD'
"That was the end of seafaring," Dutch used to say. "One taste of that logging camp bacon, and I was ashore for good."

That was in 1905, and for a dozen years Dutch worked in various logging camps.

In 1919, he switched from woods to city, and operated the Half Way House and other well-known pubs in the two-per-cent-beer days.

Early in the twenties, Dutch moved into a sprawling, roomy house at 832 Old Esquimalt Road, which was to be his home until the time of his death.

When the time came to retire, Dutch had built up a multitude of friends, and he was never lonely. The Old Esquimalt Road home, behind the 14-foot evergreen hedge, was a favorite meeting place for these friends.

FAVORITE ROOM

And the favorite room in the house was the kitchen with its shiny brass and black stove and constantly hissing kettle.

Many were the fierce and outspoken cribbage games played at the end of the oil-cloth-covered table, at which Dutch was more often the good natured referee than the acrimonious player.

It was at one of these kitchen crib sessions that Dutch won front-page fame. Somebody produced an Irish sweepstakes book with one ticket left; Dutch and three old friends who were in the crib game split the ticket four ways.

When a horse named Hard Ridden charged home first in the Epsom Derby of 1958, he brought $135,000 to Dutch and his three friends—whose nom de plume was "Kitchen Cub."

HE APPROVED

And this kitchen club of Dutch's, while not exactly exclusive, was not the type of club you could bribe your way into.

Permission to sit in Dutch's kitchen meant Dutch approved of you.

That so many people justifiably treasured Dutch's approval and friendship is all the epitaph he needs.

Sailor Admits City Burglary Early Sunday

Naval seaman Robert Arnold Enright, HMCS Terra Nova, pleaded guilty in city police court today to burglary and theft in one of five break-ins reported in Victoria and Oak Bay at the weekend.

Cons. John Adams arrested Enright at 1:30 a.m. Sunday near B-A Service, 503 Johnson, which had been entered by breaking a rear window and forcing a door. Four keys missing from the station were found on the accused.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded Enright to Friday for probation report and sentence.

SICK SEAM N RUSHED HERE BY FRIGATE

The RCN frigate Beacon Hill is racing toward Esquimalt today carrying a suspected case of acute appendicitis from the weather ship Stonetown 900 miles west of Cape Flattery.

The seaman, Louis Kilpatrick, 29, of Apt. 204, 1407 Fort Street, was diagnosed early Saturday and the frigate was diverted to make the pick up.

Beacon Hill was engaged in training exercises with a number of Regular Officers Training Plan Cadets on board and is expected to arrive in Esquimalt Tuesday at 1:30 a.m.

Four Firms Bid For Oil Pipeline

A battery of lawyers representing four pipeline companies opened argument at the Legislative Buildings today to decide who will build an oil pipeline from the rich wells of the Northern Peace River area.

The hearing is being conducted before a board headed by R. A. Swanson, and including John Meredith and A. Lucie Smith, appointed by Commercial Transport Minister Lyle Wicks.

Submitting applications were Pacific Petroleum Ltd., Gibson Associated Oils Ltd., Trans-Prairie Pipelines Ltd. and Peace River Oil Pipeline (B.C.) Ltd.

The four firms are competing for a permit to build a common carrier line which would connect wells in the Milligan Creek-Boundary Lake area, northeast of Fort St. John with refineries at Taylor Flats, or the Trans-Mountain Oil Pipeline between Alberta and Vancouver, or the rail-head of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway at Fort St. John or Dawson Creek. At present time the wells are shipping oil southward by truck.

The company winning the right to construct the pipeline would be in advantageous position for future expansion—especially if a pipeline should be required to reach from the Peace to the Lower Mainland.

CALGARY-BASED

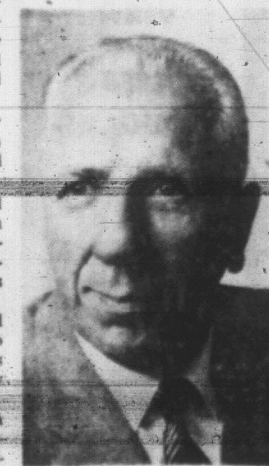

First heard today was Gibson Petroleum, represented by William H. Green, president of the firm. The firm is based in Calgary and has British backing.

Peace River Oil Pipelines (B.C.) Ltd. will propose an $8,500,000 line, 233 miles long, of which 133 miles would be in B.C. It would connect with the Trans-Mountain line near

'Bulls Eye' Shot Killed Firemen

Murder Hearing Starts in City

City fire department lieutenant James Clifford Luske, 55, died with "an almost perfect bull's eye" through his heart, medical evidence disclosed today at start of preliminary hearing of 17-year-old Victoria High School student, William Webber, charged with murder.

"It couldn't have taken a more level course," Dr. E. L. McNeven told the court.

He was the first medical man to view the body at 1417 Camosun on May 23 at about 9:50 p.m.

Dr. Ross McNeely, pathologist who performed the autopsy May 25, said death was caused by the gunshot wound which tore off the wall of the heart's right ventricle.

FLOODED WITH BLOOD

Three pints of blood were found in the chest cavity, he said.

The bullet entered between the fourth and fifth ribs and emerged between the 10th and 11th ribs, without touching any bone, he testified.

In examination of the brain of the dead man, Dr. McNeely said he found 14 areas measuring about one-eighth inch in diameter and which were "cystic," that is, suggesting Luske had suffered a series of small strokes.

There were also two tumors in the brain, measuring three-eighths and five-eighths of an inch each.

He said both conditions could cause personality changes in the victim, and possible severe headaches.

There was evidence also, he said, of slight hardening of the arteries, but otherwise Luske had been in good health.

Defence counsel Gerald Lauder asked if the strokes and tumors could have resulted in Luske "suddenly losing his temper."

"Such changes do occur in certain people," the doctor replied.

TOOK NOTES

Dr. McNeven testified he did not touch the body but took notes at the time. The victim was lying on his left side on the bedroom floor, and there was a spent 22 calibre cartridge nearby.

The door to the bedroom had been forced, splintered around the lock, he said.

He then went to the kitchen and found the accused youth and his mother, Mrs. Olive Webber, sitting at the kitchen table.

"I noticed blood on the hands of the boy," he said.

He then asked the accused if he had been drinking. The answer was "no." There was no smell of alcohol on his breath.

Mrs. Webber was crying, and alcohol on her breath was "strong ... her pupils were dilated ... face flushed."

DRINKING ALL DAY

"Mrs. Webber told me she had been drinking all day with Jim Luske," the doctor said.

Both medical men testified the victim could have died "within seconds" or up to three minutes after the shooting.

The hearing before Magistrate William Ostler was continuing with the bulk of evidence yet to be heard.

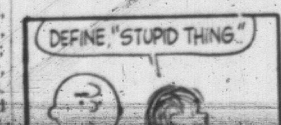

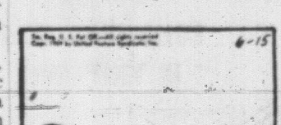

The spectacled round-faced accused glanced briefly at numerous spectators on entering the prisoner's dock, then listened impassively to testimony.

A. H. ELKINGTON ... fell 11 feet

Man Dies 11 Days After Fall

A 28-year-old construction worker, Alfred Howard Elkington, who wavered in a partial coma 11 days after a 63-foot fall at HMC Dockyard, died in hospital late Saturday.

Esquimalt police said deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore would announce an inquest, possibly for Wednesday.

A resident of Victoria three years, he had been employed the last month with Commonwealth Construction Co. He was working on a scaffold cleaning paint from windows at the recently-completed naval ordnance depot when he apparently lost his footing and fell to a concrete floor.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with multiple injuries and had been in "very poor" condition before his death about 11 p.m.

A service will be held at Hayward's funeral chapel at a time to be announced.

BODY GOING HOME

The body will be sent to Oak Lake, Man., near Brandon, the home of the dead man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thomas Elkington, for funeral service at St. David's United Church and burial at Westlawn Memorial Gardens, Oak Lake.

Elkington, who was born in Whitewood, Sask., lived with his sister Lucy and brother-in-law Constant Praud, 438 Dallas. An aunt, Mabel Elkington, also lives in Victoria.

Other survivors are a brother Everett, who came to Victoria after the accident, and two other sisters, Mabel Sawyer, Longbank, Sask., and Joyce Davies, Flin Flon, Man.

Woman 'Poor' After Clothes Catch Fire

Mrs. Jeanie Tyre, 74, of 3011 Quadra, was in "very poor" condition at noon today suffering 70 per cent burns received when her clothing caught fire at home Saturday.

City police, who took the woman to St. Joseph's Hospital, said her clothes were burned off by flames from a potholder set ablaze when she took a kettle from a gas stove.

Both clothing and a blanket in which Mrs. Tyre wrapped herself were burning when neighbor Mrs. Kathleen Gaiger and her son-in-law Pat Burke, of 3015 Quadra, rushed over in answer to Mrs. Tyre's cries for help.

Bob Shanks' saddlery show in town this week. Sheila Ball, wife of a local horse-shoer, hold the kind of saddle used by jockeys at Sandown. (Times Photo by Strickland.)

ROUGH 'N' TOUGH COWBOYS USE FOAM RUBBER SADDLES

Old 'Tall in the Saddle' Likes To Have Things Soft in the Seat

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Millions of small boys are going to gasp with dismay when they know, but the sad truth is out—red-blooded American cowboys won't mount a horse unless there's a foam rubber seat on it.

Actually the word is "saddle," of course, and the one

the cowboys bounce up and down on will be on display for all to see at the Monterey Restaurant, Wednesday and Thursday.

It's part of a saddlery show, put on by city dealer Bob Shanks and running the gamut from the teeny-weeny five-pound jobs that cost $36 to the 45-pound whoppers you can get for $450.

"We want to show how saddles have changed," said Mr. Shanks. "There are so many styles now. And we'd like to give a bit of advice, too."

The advice is for fathers of little girls with ponies. "Don't buy just any old saddle, says Bob. Make certain it fits the rider, as well as the pony, and always get a good quality model.

"England still makes the best general style saddle," he said. "Something to do with the workmanship—the treating and tanning of the leather, you know."

SURPRISES

Saddles come in all sizes, styles and surprises. The surprises—the foam rubber for the big, tough cowboy is one of them—include some of the fancy silverwork on the large western type and the news that saddles can actually break in half if the horse falls hard enough.

"Also, it might be of interest to know that a horse seldom knows what kind of a saddle has been thrown on him. But he'll soon know what type of rider's up."

To hear Bob Shanks talk, there are as many categories of rider as there are of saddle. He says the Italians are "the tops in cross-country riding," with the Germans next, then the Americans.

WORST OF ALL

"Canadians are quite good, too—watch 'em go in the next Olympics—but the English are worst of all."

"They make the best saddles and they breed superior horseflesh but when it comes to riding—well, you know, they still think it's just a game."

Saddled with two horses of his own, lean and leathery Bob will also trot out whips, riding crops (there's a difference), cinches (or girths), horseshoes and glycerine-based saddle soap at the show.

"We want the people to understand there's more to riding a horse than just getting on," he said. "Learners should never ride for more than a few minutes at a time, for instance, and no rider should wear anything but seamless clothing."

LITTLE 'CISSIFIED'

Over the years, saddles have not altered much, except they have become perhaps just a little "ciissified."

The Indians used to make their saddles out of buffalo skin. Now you can get them in all sorts of treated cowhide, with pigskin making the most luxurious saddle.

But no matter whether it comes from pig or cow, a saddle, says Bob, is a "must" for any rider.

"Nobody should ride bare back. It's too dangerous. You can come off too easily and hurt yourself that way. Not good for the horse, either."

The show, from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. both days, is free. Bring your own horses.

Frank Rosemus, Lincoln Hotel, was found with 76 packages of cigarettes in his hotel room, and admitted to police he "knew they were stolen."

But he refused to say from where they came.

Police, however, said they came from the vending machine in the Victoria Curling Club, looted June 12.

Rosemus was remanded to Friday for a probation report and sentence.

MIDDLEBORO, Mass. (UPI) — A Philadelphia man was found alive today in the trunk of his car where two cop-killing bandits stuffed him a week ago and left him without food while they used the car for a crime spree.

'ROYAL INSULT'
CLAIMS PAPER

LONDON (CP) — A London Sunday newspaper charges that there is a "disgraceful campaign" in Canada to wreck the forthcoming tour of the country on which the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh embark this week.

The story in the mass-circulation newspaper The People says "it is time the mother country learned just how far open hostility to the Royal Tour and even to the Queen herself has gone in one of her own dominions."

The Canadian "campaign of insult" report caused scant concern today in court circles. Officials said the article appeared merely to have "dredged up all the adverse comment" made in Canada about the tour over a considerable period of time.

A more positive reaction came in Canada from the chief information officer for the Royal Tour. "I personally haven't seen any lack of en-

'Unwanted Mother-in-Law Barging In'

The story says: "To anyone reading certain Canadian publications and the statements of a number of prominent Dominion personalities it seems brutally clear that there is something like a conspiracy to present the Queen as a sort of unwanted mother-in-law barging in on a long-suffering relative."

It adds that "the Canadian government itself and the Dominion's more responsible newspapers are, opposed to these unseemly attacks on the tour."

Among the criticisms cited by the paper was a recent CBC panel program. Maclean's magazine is reported as saying "the belief that Canadians want glamour, excitement and mystery from the Royal Tour to relieve the tedium of their dull little lives is propaganda from an extinct era."

On the CBC program, the article said, Toronto writer June Callwood commented that "unlike her mother, the Queen isn't ready to meet the people — and won't be ready for years." Max Ferguson, better known as television commentator Rawhide, was quoted as having said royal tours amount to "mass commercialized hysteria."

"Some newspapers," says The People, "keep publishing letters complaining that there is constant ramming of the royal family down Canadian throats to work up an enthusiasm that does not exist."

"With newspapers and magazines publishing sneers and complaints of this kind it is not surprising that the public reaction to the Queen's tour is in some places lukewarm."

Fleet Hunts
Sub Off Island

Ships of the Royal Canadian Navy and Royal Canadian Air Force planes today continued a search started Saturday for an unidentified submarine reported cruising in the vicinity of Vancouver Island.

Naval officials at Esquimalt and air force spokesmen at No. 5 Air Division headquarters in Vancouver refused to give any information about the size of the search fleet or its location because of security regulations.

It is known that several ships, believed frigates, are in the search, and six of the navy's atomic-age sub hunters were due to leave Portland, Ore., today after attending the city's famous rose festival.

SAILPAST CLUE
Absentees from the 16-ship sailpast to take place Tuesday from Race Rocks to Trial Island between 11:45 a.m. and 1 p.m. might give an indication of what ships are taking part in the search.

Anticipated lineup for the sailpast, brought about by coincidence when all ships were expected to be in the area at the same time, is as follows: Destroyer-escorts Assiniboine, Fraser, Skeena, Margaree, Saguenay, and St. Laurent.

Frigates Sussexvale, Stettler, St. Therese, Beacon Hill, Jonquiere, New Glasgow, New Waterford, and Antigonish.

Russia
May Meet
U.S. Alone

GENEVA (CP) — The Big Four foreign ministers, trying to stave off the collapse of the Geneva conference, Monday night decided on a one-day recess to search for a new Berlin compromise formula.

GENEVA (CP) — The Big Four foreign ministers tonight held a "crisis" private session amid reports Russia may seek direct bilateral negotiations with the United States.

As the deadlocked conference entered its sixth week, a Communist informant said Russia is considering seeking talks on Berlin with the U.S. alone if there are no concrete results here.

The informant said such talks could be held when deputy premier Frol Kozlov visits the U.S. at the end of this week providing a summit conference would follow.

Meantime, Britain made an 11th hour attempt to keep the Geneva conference alive.

SESSION POSTPONED

Today's private Big Four session was postponed two hours as Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told the American and French foreign ministers about his hopes for agreement.

Lloyd flew in from London at the start of the sixth and probably final week of the so-far abortive conference.

The big question is whether the conference on Germany's future will end in stalemate or agree at least on a summit meeting.

Lloyd attended a cabinet session in London this morning and later told reporters he still is hoping for an East-West agreement. He said, "I will try to play my part in seeking to achieve it."

U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter conferred with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville at midday and they arranged to meet Lloyd immediately upon his return here for a strategy session aimed at maintaining the Western solid front in dealing with Russia.

U.S. officials said that if Gromyko came up with no new ideas today the Western powers would expect the talks to go on for probably two more meetings in a search for an agreeable formula for breaking off negotiations.

PORTLAND (AP) — Two Canadian sailors were injured in separate traffic mishaps today, shortly before their ships were scheduled to leave.

Dave Kinash, 20, of the destroyer Assiniboine, suffered scalp cuts and a head injury when struck by a Rose City Transit Company bus. At Veterans' Hospital, his condition was reported to be satisfactory but he was to be held for about two days for observation.

Thomas James Allison of the destroyer escort Margaree was struck by a truck and was taken to hospital with leg injuries.

Six Canadian Navy ships have been tied up at the seawall for participation in last week's Rose Festival. An estimated 30,000 visitors went aboard the Canadian ships in the four days they were open to visitors.

40 Businesses,
Homes Levelled

LANARK, Ont. (CP) — More than 40 businesses and homes were destroyed or heavily damaged by fire here Monday, causing more than $1,000,000 in damages.

About four hours after the wind-whipped fire started at about 10:15 a.m. MDT, firefighters said they believed they had the fire in check.

They believed it would not spread beyond the area already engulfed by flames whipped by winds gusting to more than 40 miles an hour.

The fire spread quickly through the business section of this small town of about 900 population. The business district is on an incline on the north side of the Clyde River that runs across town.

JUMPED RIVER

The wind carried the blaze across the narrow Clyde to residential areas south of the river. High winds carried burning embers to other parts of town, starting smaller fires in 10 different spots. Thick clouds of purple smoke could be seen 10 miles away.

No one was reported injured. A woman collapsed from shock.

Two women were dragged to safety from their burning home by a neighbor. They are Mrs. John Beachman, 86, and her invalid daughter, Annie, 50.

Their rescuer was Mrs. Eleanor Murphy, 55. Their home was near the Campbell Sash and Door Manufacture where the fire was reported to have started.

The estimate of damage was made by Reeve Bob Dowdall of Lanark, owner of the Campbell Shop.

NEWSPAPER SAVED

Only four businesses in the town were reported still standing. They are the Lanark Era weekly newspaper, Glenayre Knit Mills, whose boiler shop and garage were destroyed, Murphy's meat shop and Topping's grocery.

Residents in Balderson, three miles south of Lanark, took in about 40 evacuees who lost their homes. Other persons were taken in by residents whose homes were untouched by the fire.

The fire spread quickly to other frame buildings after it started.

Buildings destroyed on the west side of George Street: The town hall, including the fire station and Canadian Legion headquarters, the 44-room Victoria Hotel, Hornell's Department Store, Charleton's block including a store and apartments, Bell Telephone Company, Strange's Drug Store, Quinn's Shoe Repair, Lee's Hardware and Furnishing, two groceries — Howell's.

PRINCESS MARGARET
... "extremely angry"

TOUR BUNGLED?

Princess
Mad About
Portugal

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret has been reported "extremely angry" over the way her visit to Portugal last week was managed.

The Sunday Dispatch says the Princess complained to Sir Charles Stirling, British ambassador in Lisbon, and that the British embassy there is under fire.

The paper adds that as a result "it is likely that Princess Margaret's views will mean a new policy in arrangements for semi-official Royal visits abroad."

The paper says Portuguese police were blamed for excessive security arrangements during the visit but that "the British embassy handling of the visit is not considered entirely blameless."

"One aspect is whether the embassy was wise in allowing so much news about the Princess' engagements to be made public."

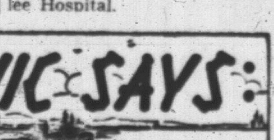

The paper also cites Portuguese newspaper criticism of the embassy for demanding unnecessary security restrictions.

It gave as an example an occasion when the Princess went swimming "and people were confined to their homes and householders were ordered to paint over their windows."

45% OF CANCER-FEARING CITY DOCTORS DON'T SMOKE

'Do as I Say AND Do as I Do'

Fear by many Victoria doctors of lung cancer as a result of smoking was pointed up today in a dramatic speech by Dr. Henry Edmison, 53-year-old radiologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Speaking to the Gyro Club, he reported that 45 of 100 city doctors do not smoke, many for fear of lung cancer, while others have either reduced their cigarette consumption or switched to pipes because of the possibility of contracting the disease.

"Lung cancer in North America now accounts for nearly one-fourth of all cancer deaths in men," he said.

Death from lung cancer is ten times as great among cigarette smokers as among non-smokers; 20 to 30 times as high for those who smoke between one and two packages a day, 40 to 60 times as high for those who smoke more than two packages a day.

Stressing that he was neither a "crusader" nor a "reformer," Dr. Edmison, himself a non-smoker, drew significance from the fact that mice coated with tobacco tars usually produced a number of malignant tumors.

"One must accept the probability that cigarette smoke in sufficient quantity is at least one factor in the increased incidence of lung cancer," the radiologist went on.

"Filters do trap a fraction of the tar and nicotine but there has never been any reliable evidence to indicate they actually protect smokers from the risk of cancer."

Dr. Edmison scored cigarette advertising, which persuaded people the risk of cancer from cigarettes was negligible, noting this was effectively undoing years of warnings from the medical profession.

"At least 50 per cent of this advertising comes via television and the effect is mainly on young people, who receive a one-sided picture of the situation."

He said some of the opponents of the cancer-through-smoking talk pointed out that there was more lung cancer
